D.C. hostages freed by Muslims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hanafi Muslim gunmen ended their two-day siege and freed 134 hostages early Friday after three Moslem ambassadors entered their command post, read passages from the Koran and urged them to surrender, Mayor Walter Washington announced.

"It's a beautiful day!" the mayor told newsmen.

The release of the hostages came three hours after the Moslem ambassadors negotiated with the Hanafi commander Hamaas Abdul Khaalis in the B'nai B'rith headquarters the gunmen had captured Wednesday.

He said the estimated nine Hanafi Muslims agreed to call it quits, submit to arrest and release their hostages for immediate hospital examination only hours after the ambassadors of Egypt, Iran and Pakistan negotiated with their leader at his command post at B'nai B'rith headquarters.

Within minutes of Washington's announcement, hostages began pouring from the three buildings occupied by the revenge-bent Muslims, who shot and clubbed their way in Wednesday morning.

At the same time, the gunmen themselves started coming out and were whisked for arraignment at Superior Court.

The charges were not at first spelled out.

Buses carried the hostages to hospitals.

During the nearly 40-hour siege, one man was killed and eight injured.

District Police Chief Maurice Cullinane laid the credit for the peaceful end to the siege at the feet of the Moslem ambassadors.

"The three ambassadors helped us just tremendously," Cullinane said.

"At all three of the locations, we have under arrest — all of the terrorists," an elated Mayor Washington announced at his crisis headquarters about 2 a.m.

"The ambassadors, they were beautiful!" he said.

"They talked with them, they read from the Koran. My police chief is absolutely fabulous . . . The gunmen will all be arrested. They are on the way to court to be arraigned."

Heros of the hour were ambassadors Ashraf Ghorbal of Egypt, Ardeshir Zahedi of Iran and Sahabzada Yaqub-Kahn of Pakistan who spent three hours late Thursday negotiating with the Hanafi raiders' leader, Hamaas Abdul, Khaalis, in his B'nai B'rith headquarters occupation post.

After the release of the hostages, church bells pealed and automobile horns honked constantly in the area around the B'nai B'rith building where the drama was centered.

Asked about the key to the end of the ordeal, Cullinane said it was the personal negotiations Thursday night with Hanafi leaders.

Lonely vigil outside Muslim lines

John Lampinen

WASHINGTON — Sam Stahlmann shuffled his feet and glanced at the cement below.

He found himself doing it often.

It was a sign of tension. One of the few signs he gave as a band of Hanafi Muslims held three nearby buildings under siege along with more than 100 hostages.

He and his daughter Kathy were waiting. David Lesnick was up there.

LESNICK IS Kathy's husband.

Like most of the crowd that gathered near the B'nai B'rith headquarters in Washington, D.C., they weren't exactly sure what they were waiting for.

The 150 persons who stood behind ropes police had used to cordon off the area only stared.

They stared at a single light shining out of an eighth floor window about 100 yards away.

THE SCENE WAS in marked contrast to the vigil at the District Building, Washington's city hall, a few dozen blocks away. There, lights glared out of every room into streets that were almost empty, except for police and only a handful of spectators.

As the hour neared 11 p.m. in Washington, the moon outside the B'nai B'rith headquarters was one of quiet calm.

More stories and photos on Pages 2 and 3.

The majority of those in the vigil were reporters, and most of them littered the square under a statue of a horseback rider. Others sat on tailgates of station wagons, quietly eating late suppers out of plastic trays.

Only a handful were permitted past the ropes, and they had to produce keys to a nearby hotel to gain passage.

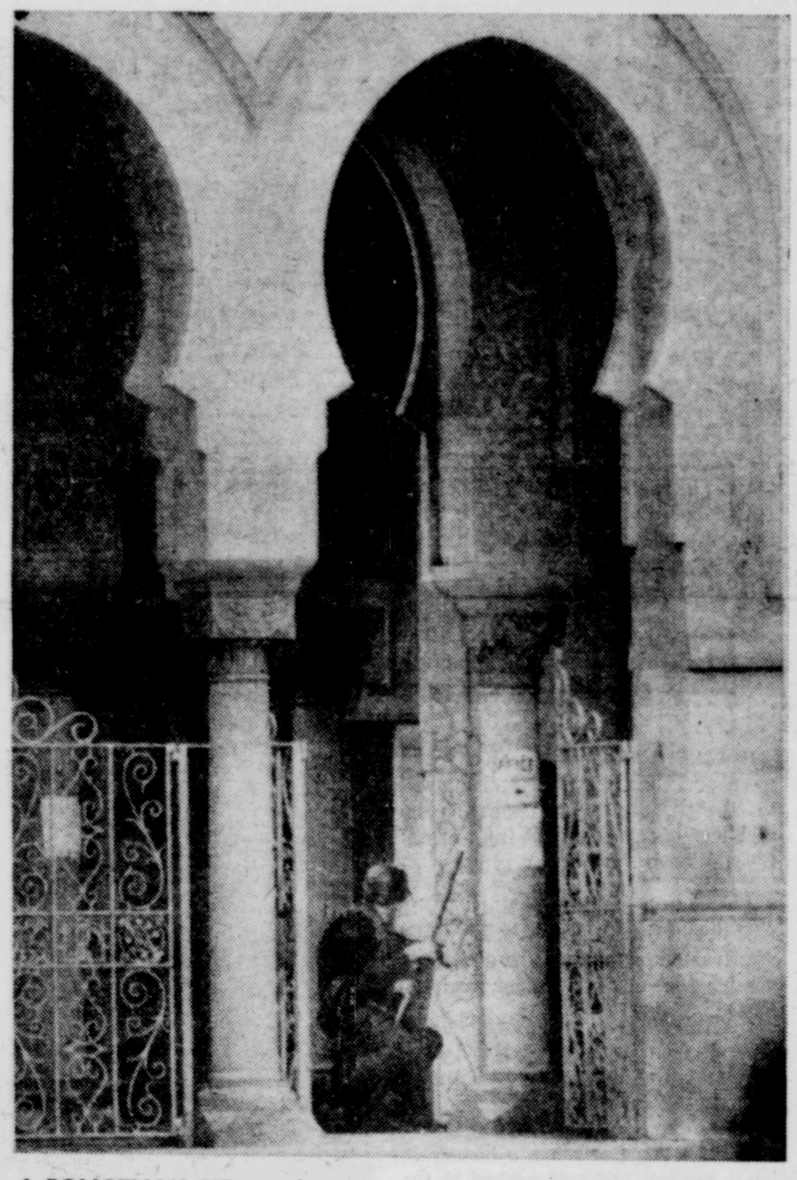

MRS. LESNICK, 23, had just gotten to the scene with her father about an hour earlier.

She lives in Columbia, Md., and had been staying with friends since she recived the news of the raid. She waited there for Stahlmann to catch the first plane he could out of Long Island.

Lesnick, 27, is n executive who works in the building where B'nai B'rith is headquartered, she said.

He had been in a seventh floor office talking on the phone to Wendy, a friend of Mrs. Lesnick's, when Jewish leaders in the Northwest suburbs say they are stunned by the invasion of the B'nai B'rith Jewish social service center in Washington by Hanafi Muslim gunmen.

The terrorists, who are seeking revenge for the 1973 slaying of two women and five children who belonged to the Hanafi sect, also have assailed Jews and the Israeli occupation of Arab territory.

"It is indicative of warped and psychotic minds that they would blame Jews when they know it was fellow Muslims who committed the murders and who are now in prison for that," said Rabbi Mordecai Rosen of Congregation Beth Judea, Long Grove.

IN NORTH suburban Skokie, which has a large Jewish population, police Thursday began special patrols around synagogues and a Jewish theological seminary. No incidents were reported.

Rabbi Hillel Gamoran, of Beth Tikvah Congregation, Hoffman Estates, said the terrorists attacks "are a matter of concern to everyone."

"It's possible that the Hanafi Muslims are anti-Jewish and anti-Israeli. But from what I gather, this is not the main issue with them," he said. "After all, they also seized a mosque and a government building."

I turned...and he was gone: dad

by NANCY GOTLER

"Michael got up from behind the wheel to work on the clamps at the back of the boat. Then I heard a noise at the back of the boat, turned around and Michael was gone."

That is James Loughnane's account of what happened June 29, 1975, the day the state says he attempted to kill his son, Michael, then 16, by throwing him overboard into Lake Michigan.

During four hours on the witness stand, Loughnane broke down in tears when asked by defense attorney Edward Genson why he did not use emergency procedures he learned as a policeman to rescue his son.

"I panicked," he cried, his voice cracking and tears streaming down his face.

LOUGHNANE, 40, a former Arlington Heights resident and ex-Chicago policeman, would have collected $240,000 in life insurance benefits if his son died accidentally. He testified Thursday in the seventh day of the trial. The case is expected to go to the jury this afternoon.

In his testimony, Loughnane described a frantic hour-long search for his son and said he had difficulty radioing the Coast Guard for help.

But under questioning by State's Atty. John Mannion, he admitted he had worked in the Chicago Police Department's radio communications unit and was an expert underwater diver.

After his son fell in the water Loughnane said he went back 100 yards to the spot he thought Michael had gone overboard and used a circular search technique he had learned in an Arlington Heights Park District boat safety course.

EARLIER, WITNESSES said Michael was rescued two or three miles from where Loughnane's 27-foot cruiser, Happiness Is, was anchored, much farther than the boat could have drifted during the search.

A 30-inch metal pipe, which an earlier witness said was found wedged between the boat's seat cushions after Michael's rescue, was used to anchor the boat, Loughnane said, not to strike his son.

"I got an iron pipe that was the back end of the berth and tied some rope to it," the defendant said. "I used that with the anchor."

Genson attempted to show that Michael had been taught to hate his father by asking his client about his relationship with his sons after divorcing their mother in 1961.

"IF THE KIDS came by me she'd (his ex-wife) give them a spanking and the last two times I was there she called the police," Loughnane said.

Under questioning by Genson, the defendant said he was given custody of Michael and his brother, James, in 1972 because their mother could not care for them.

"They came to us with their things in a green plastic garbage bag," Loughnane said. He said he bought the boys new wardrobes.

LOUGHNANE ALSO said insurance salesman Clark Smaha, an earlier witness, first suggested a $100,000 life insurance policy on Michael.

"We did it so he could have a savings plan for when he was older," Loughnane said.

Loughnane was the defense's last witness. Closing arguments will be heard when the trial resumes today.

Roosevelt U. campus meets opposition

A proposal by Roosevelt University of Chicago to lease Miner Junior High School for a satellite campus is meeting opposition from residents who say it would be a safety hazard for children attending a nearby elementary school.

Residents living near the junior high, 1101 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights, say a college campus would be incompatible with the residential area and with Windsor Elementary School, 1315 E. Miner St.

The university's intention to negotiate a long-term lease for an Arlington Heights Dist. 25 junior high school was announced last week. The district has said it will close one of its four junior high schools because of declining enrollment and mounting budget deficits, but which one has not been decided.

"OUR MAIN CONCERN is the safety of the children going to Windsor School and to Recreation Park (two blocks west of the two schools)," Betty Walter, 1511 E. Miner St., said.

Mrs. Walter said a petition drive opposing Roosevelt University's use of Miner Junior High School is being considered.

"The thought of putting a college extension school in a residential area like this is asking for trouble. There are too many small children walking in the area," Carol Pelzner, 1417 E. Wing St., said.

"We aren't opposed to Miner closing if it is necessary, but we don't want a college in a residential area," Mrs. Pelzner said.

MRS. PELZNER and Mrs. Walter said Thomas Junior High School, 303 E. Thomas St., would be a more "suitable" site for Roosevelt University. The school is more accessible and not adjacent to an elementary school, they said.

The two other junior high schools in the district are South Junior High School, 314 S. Highland Ave., and Rand Junior High School, 2550 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Donald V. Strong, Dist. 25 superintendent, said Thursday that talks between Roosevelt University and Dist. 25 officials are continuing but that it would be premature to speculate which school will be selected.

"WE MUST SEE if Roosevelt's needs and the district's needs are mutually desirable and compatible," Strong said.

Roosevelt University officials are expected to announce in May which school they prefer, Strong said.

"But I doubt that the board will make any decision at that meeting. There will be plenty of time to consider the request and carefully study all the problems and circumstances," he said.

Student arrested for hitting dean

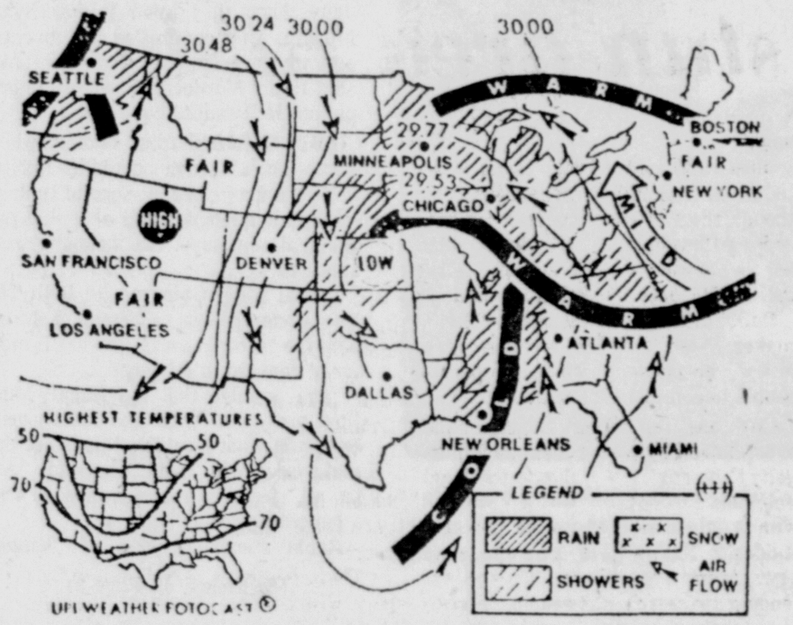

A student at Maine West High School, Des Plaines, was charged with aggravated battery for punching a school administrator during a walkout by about 100 students at the high school. Kenneth A. Chaney, 17, of 3071 Stillwell Dr., Des Plaines, was released on $2,500 bond Thursday afternoon. Police said Chaney struck George Jurniek, Maine West dean of boys, during a demonstration by students against the school's closed campus policy. The policy forbids students from leaving school grounds during the school day without permission.

In an unrelated incident, a 17-year-old Maine South High School student was arrested by Park Ridge police in connection with the stabbing of Lawrence Romano, 15, of 1200 S. Greenwood Ave., Park Ridge, during a scuffle at the school. Police refused to identify the 17-year-old until charges are filed. Romano, who was stabbed in the chest and arm, was reported in good condition following surgery at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. The 17-year-old is being held pending the filing of charges and a bond hearing today.

Jacobson suspended after tiff

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Walter Jacobson, Channel 2 news anchorman and commentator, is sitting-out a two-day suspension from his $115,000-a-year job, reportedly for flaring up once too often.

The station's news director, Jay Feldman, said he suspended Jacobson late Wednesday, explaining only "it had nothing to do with anything he said or did on the air. It's not even a dispute over moralistic or journalistic issues."

"It's an internal matter," Feldman said Thursday, assuring that Jacobson will resume his duties Monday on the 5,6 and 10 p.m. newscasts.

SOURCES AT WBBM-TV reported that Jacobson had an argument with a news staffer just before Wednesday's 10 p.m. news show.

Feldman was in the station at the time and served Jacobson with the suspension. Although the Wednesday night blow-up was over a minor point regarding visuals to be used in the broadcast, it is not the first time that Jacobson has had a confrontation with someone in the newsroom, sources said.

The 39-year-old Chicago native is separated from his wife, and the station is getting stiff competition in night newscasts from WMAQ-TV, Channel 5 — all of which has built up new pressures for Jacobson and the news staff.

Jacobson's "Perspective," which he has been reading as an anchorman with Bill Kurtis on the Channel 2 news since March 1973, was not heard Thursday night and will not appear tonight.

CBS officials are attempting to hire new blood for the newsroom and looking for a third anchorman in an attempt to improve its sagging ratings. However, Feldman said Thursday he has no intentions of making Jacobson's absence permanent.

House OKs office expense raise

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Bills raising lawmakers' home office allowance $5,000 per year and their mileage payments a nickel per mile passed the Illinois House Thursday.

Meanwhile, bills to raise daily expenses from $36 to $44 per day and give legislators $2,000 each year to rent cars moved closer to passage.

The home office bill, H243, offered by Rep. Eugene Schlickman, increases the annual payment from $12,000 to $17,000. Schlickman says it is impossible to run an effective home district office without the increase. The vote was 104-29.

The measure raising mileage from 15 cents per mile to 20 cents, H255, is sponsored by Rep. Roman Kosinski, D-Chicago. It went to the Senate on a 95-48 vote. Kosinski says mileage payments don't cover a roundtrip by air or car.

Rep. Arthur Telcser, R-Chicago, introduced the daily expense allowance bill, H256. It was put at the passage stage after an amendment to cut off the daily allowance each year after June 30 failed.

House majority leader Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, offered the cut-off amendment on grounds it would force the legislature to finish business by June 30. It was rejected.

Finally, a bill, H226, proposing each of the state's 236 lawmakers get $2,000 each year for cars rented in connection with legislative duties passed the House Executive Committee and is on the House floor.

Hostages doing fine, captors say

WASHINGTON (UPI) — According to their Hanafi Muslim captors, the scores of hostages tied up at three locations Thursday were doing fine.

And at least some of those who didn't feel too well were being released.

By midday, a man and woman from B'nai B'rith and a woman from the Islamic Center mosque had been sent to George Washington medical center because they complained of chest pains.

A gunman reached by telephone at the mosque was asked how the rest of his estimated 15 hostages were doing.

"The hostages are fine," he said. "Everybody's resting now. Their hands are tied in front of them so they can be nice and comfortable."

HE SAID POLICE sent in food, including "bananas, tea, coffee, bread and hard boiled eggs."

The gunman also said he felt fine and had slept "a little bit." "I sleep like a tiger," he said. "I jump up whenever there's danger."

And, he said, "nobody's complained about anything yet."

Police also sent food to the 100 plus hostages at B'nai B'rith and the seven at Washington's city hall.

At B'nai B'rith, hostages received coffee and doughnuts about 9 a.m. — 22 hours after their capture — and they got more food later in the day.

By late afternoon, Daniel Thursz, executive director of B'nai B'rith, said the victims were "getting substantial amounts of food," including sandwiches, cottage cheese, and meats. Asked whether Kosher diets were being provided Thursz said "We are trying to take care of that."

POLICE ALSO gathered medical supplies which persons at B'nai B'rith were believed to require, such as prescription drugs.

At city hall, the Hanafis yelled out at midday they were hungry, and negotiations started for hamburgers, french fries and soft drinks. That was after one of the hostages, Alan Grip, was allowed to talk to a radio station via telephone.

With his captors' voices muffled in the background, Grip said, "we're being treated very well. We've asked for cigarets, we've gotten them. We've asked for food for breakfast, they've gotten it. We've asked for a newspaper, they've gotten that. They allowed us to have our hands tied in front of us instead of in back which is a lot more comfortable.

"We're allowed to stand, or sit or lie down, whichever is more comfortable. We're allowed to have coffee or tea."

POLICE SAID hostages at city hall were periodically untied and allowed to stretch, and there were no indications of mistreatment from any of those released.

A woman hostage from B'nai B'rith who declined to be publicly identified was treated for chest pains at George Washington medical center and released.

Cecile Von Goetz, 47, Oakley, Md., was admitted to George Washington from the Islamic Mosque at midday. Her half-brother Karl Von Goetz, 30, said Mrs. Von Goetz has a history of heart trouble, and had worked at the mosque about a month as an administrator.

Von Goetz, who three times asked the Hanafis to exchange his sister for himself, said he was a mercenary and recently returned from Rhodesia where he helped government troops.

He said Mrs. Von Goetz did not appear to be hurt, "just nervous and exhausted."

A third hostage, Henry Siegel, 54, was released from B'nai B'rith after complaining of chest pains and breathing problems. He was admitted to George Washington for observation.

CECILE VON GOETZ, 47, of Oakley, Md., one of the hostages freed by the Black Hanafi Muslims in Washington, is escorted from the Islamic mosque. Her son said she had a history of heart trouble and was reported "nervous and exhausted."

Gunman 'played with the greats'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — He wasn't a regular, but Ernest Timothy McGhee sat in as a percussionist with some of the biggest names in jazz at New York nightclubs during 1949 and early 1950.

"I played with a lot of big names while I was in New York — Billie Holiday, Bud Powell, Charlie Parker, Max Roach, J. J. Johnson — I played with all of them," he recalled in a 1973 interview.

In 1973 his name no longer was McGhee, but Hamaas Abdul Khaalis, leader of a black group which espoused the beliefs of the Hanafis, part of the Sunni sect which embraces 400 million of the world's 700 million followers of Islam.

HE IS LEADER of the black gunmen who laid seige to three Washington buildings, demanding retribution for the slaughter of seven of his family and followers in 1973.

Both Khaalis and government prosecutors have charged the murders were reetaliation for letters Khaalis wrote criticizing the late Elijah Muhammad, founder and leader of the Black Muslims until his death.

Khaalis had been a follower of Elijah Muhammad. "I was told by my teacher, a Pakistani friend named Tasibur Uddein Rahman, to join that gang in Chicago," Khaalis said in the 1973 interview. "He said they were being deceived and I should try to help them."

HE ADVANCED in the heirarchy, for a time running the sect's private school in Chicago.

"I held my highest position, national secretary, in 1956," he recalled. "I left in 1958 after an argument. (Elijah Muhammad) was suggesting there be one set of rules for his family and another for the rest of the members.

After the split, Khaalis returned to New York.

He rejected efforts at reconciliation by Malcolm X before Malcolm himself split with Elijah Muhammad. He believed Malcolm was killed in 1965 because he had turned to orthodox Islam and away from the Black Muslims.

'Don't get me involved' pleads Ali

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, one of three Black Muslims the Hanafi Muslim leaders have demanded to see, told ABC Thursday: "If you're concerned about me, don't get me involved."

In a telephone interview from a private home in Los Angeles with ABC reporter Barbara Walters, Ali said he would talk only with President Carter.

Ali would not allow Miss Walters to tape the brief phone conversation for her program.

"In a subdued voice, with no bravado or fight in it, Ali kept repeating that he didn't want to be involved," Miss Walters said.

She quoted Ali as saying "If you're concerned about me, Don't get me involved."

Miss Walters said Ali said he would talk only with President Carter.

When she asked if he had tried to reach the president, he replied "no."

She said Ali said if the president "calls me, I'll call back."

Miss Walters said she asked Ali "Are you scared?" but he didn't reply.

She asked him: "Has anyone asked you to come to Washington?

He answered: "No ma'am."

Relatives of hostages huddle together, await destiny

by RICHARD H. GROWALD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The mothers and fathers, the husbands and wives huddled at the front door of the National Rifle Assn. headquarters, just around the corner from the line of fire.

They paid no heed to metal letters affixed to the front wall reading: "The right of people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

They had eyes only for the eight-story, white and blue glass and cement B'nai B'rith building around the corner on New Jersey Avenue, where more than 100 captives awaited their destiny.

"My wife is in there," a young red-haired man said. "Oh, my God, she is in there!"

"EASY SON," said a shorter, gray-haired man.

Down the street came the shout of Police Officer R. G. Franck, whose throat needed no bullhorn:

"Get back, get back! You're in the line of fire!"

Five bystanders stood on a lonesome corner curb in what until the terror struck Wednesday had been a zone of daylong rush hour traffic. They looked up at Franck, his bulk unprotected by a light pole between him and the B'nai B'rith Building. Thy shuffled back.

Outside the NRA building a woman in Red Cross uniform and sunglasses spread paper cups for coffee, soda, ginger ale. A relative asked for a diet cola.

"SORRY, DEAR, but the Food and Drug people said yesterday that saccharin can cause cancer," the Red Cross woman said.

The red-haired young man clenched his fists and groaned.

"Easy, son," the gray-haired man repeated.

A hostage's husband offered a cigaret to a hostage's wife. "Thanks."

They smiled. The smiles faded. Was this a time for even a polite smile? They looked at each other and smiled again.

ROBERT GORDON, 51, gripped his brown leather mail pouch and surveyed the siege ground that had been his delivery route. He shook his head.

"This was a right peaceable place. We have a lot of banks around here so we had quite a few bank robberies. And there was the usual type of street crime. But this hostage business, no sir, this is cruel."

B'nai B'rith sits in one of those racial border areas in a city that is more than 70 per cent black.

To the west lies the road to Georgetown, a white ghetto. To the east a black area begins, beyond the 14th Street adult book and movie houses.

The Red Cross set up its center in the Foundry United Methodist Church, hoping relatives would go into the basement for cots, coffee and comforting. But the red-haired young man, the gray-haired man and 11 others stayed by the Rifle Assn.

"IT'S CLOSER," the gray-haired man said.

"Get back! Get back!" foghorned Officer Franck. "There's men up on the eighth floor and they've got automatic rifles!"

His voice drove back another band of spectators.

"I saw them bring out two persons covered in blood yesterday," letter carrier Gordon said. His lower lip moved up and half covered his mustache.

"My wife never told me there was any danger," the red-haired man said. "She didn't know there was any danger."

"Easy, son."

With the siege in its second day, spectators were down to several score. Wednesday night hundreds had mustered.

the raid came Wednesday.

As he was on the phone, Mrs. Lesnick said, a voice had blared out over the building's intercom.

"There are gunmen in the building. Lock your doors," it had commanded.

Lesnick had not been considerably upset by it. There have been, his wife observed, a number of minor incidents in the building during the past year.

HE JUST EXCUSED himself to go lock the door, and then he returned to the phone.

Mrs. Lesnick had been working in Baltimore during the day. Apparently no one had known how to get in touch with her.

She did not hear about it until she got home from work and received a call from a friend in California.

"Is David all right?" the friend had asked.

Then she began to try to locate him. The seventh floor office has a direct line, and she dialed it, thinking perhaps he had not been found by the Hanafi Moslem terroist.

There was no answer.

Later, she tried the number again, and again, and again.

There was no doubt, she said. He was a hostage.

SHE TURNED AND glared at the building.

Now there was a glimmer of hope spreading through the crowd. Word was out that White House aides and Arab diplomats were inside trying to negotiate.

That's why, Mrs. Lesnick said, she was here instead of two blocks down, where most of the relatives of hostages were staying at a church.

Her husband was finishing work this year for a degree in social work. He had done the schooling part time.

Did she really expect that there would be a break tonight, someone asked.

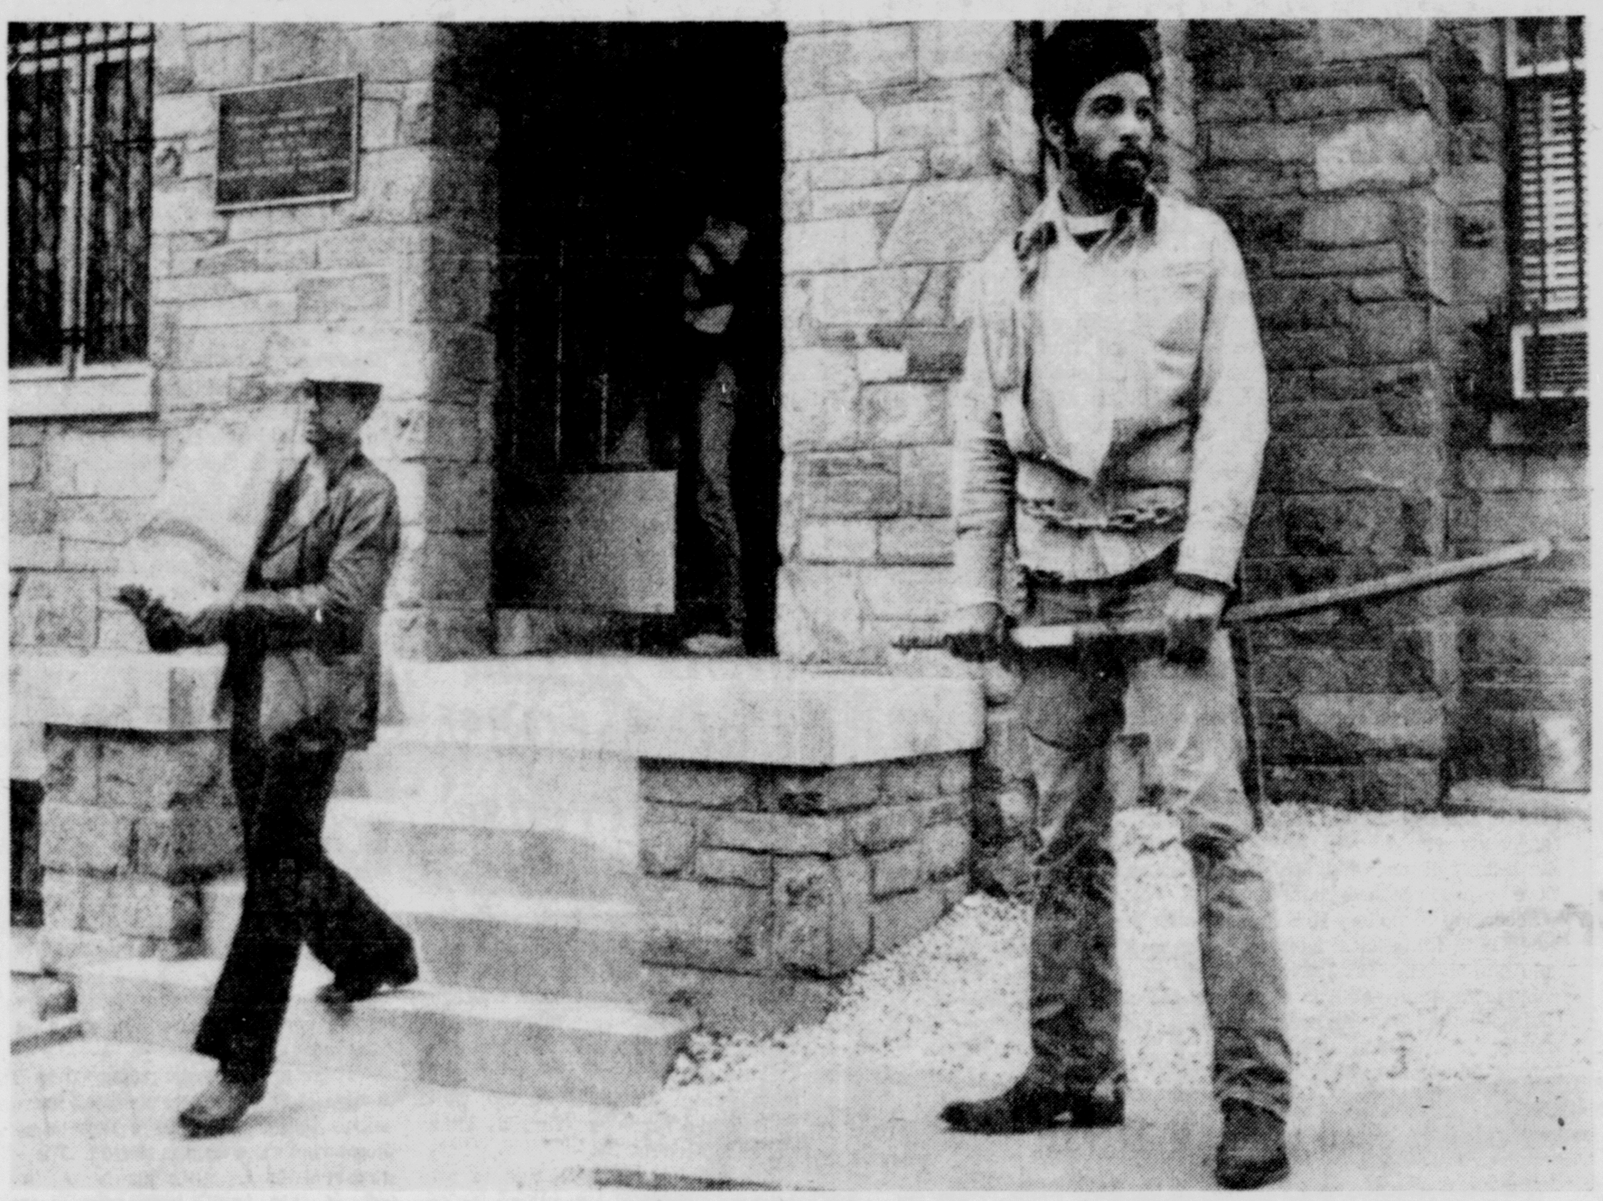

MRS. LESNICK turned and started at the building.

She nodded and stopped a chuckle. She hadn't shown the tension all night.

"I have a funny feeling something's happening because of all these talks now," she said.

At about midnight most of the diplomats left. They did not stop to issue a statement. They did not stop to say the crisis was almost over.

Mrs. Lesnick's wait would continue.

AS A BLACK Hanafi Muslim stands guard with a sword, Abdul Azzis, son-in-law of Hamaas Abdul Khaalis the leader of a group of Black Hanafi Muslims holding hostages in Washington, leaves the sect's headquarters with food for the abductors.

'Terrorists feed on publicity'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hostage-taking acts of terrorism feed on publicity and encourage similar outbreaks by the attention and occasional success the terrorists have in achieving their goals, four psychiatrists said Thursday.

Three of the specialists on terrorist behavior agreed with President Carter that he was setting "a dangerous precedent" by calling an Ohio gunman after he released a hostage earlier this week.

The psychiatrists said in a telephone interviews establishment of a dialogue between authorities and those holding hostages is important. One said the wait-and-see approach taken by police in the siege of three Washington buildings usually is the most successful.

"IT'S HARD TO sustain a peak of violence for a long period of time," said Dr. Shervert Frazier, of the McLean Hospital at Belmont, Mass., and a consultant to the Mental Health Assn.

The specialists agreed there is no question massive publicity about such acts encourages similar terrorism but said there is no ready solution to the problem.

"We certainly can't say let's interfere with the freedom of the press and stop all this publicity and not let people know what's going on," said Dr. Calvin Frederick, head of emergency mental health at the National Institute of Mental Health. "I think that's unreasonable."

Dr. Joseph Novello, of the Psychiatric Institute of Washington and Georgetown University, said there is a need for some well thought out national guidelines for media reporting. He said Carter's decision to phone the Ohio gunman after he released his hostage set a precedent that is "very dangerous," although if the call saved a man's life, "that's a great thing."

Gunmen's actions stun area rabbis

Chai, Buffalo Grove, said, by coincidence, he was in Washington, D.C., Wednesday when the Hanafi Muslims seized the hostages, but that he, like many other Americans, was not aware of the building invasion until later.

"The first thought that came into my mind is that the terrorists are doing all this in the name of religion — holding people hostage, talking about the chopping of heads and so forth."

"THAT IS CERTAINLY not the teaching of Judaism, Christianity or Moslems," said Rabbi Jay Karzen of the Maine Township Jewish Congregation.

It is "outrageous," Rabbi Karzen said, to claim that the Jews have had anything to do with the rival Muslim factions.

"This has always been part of our history, all through the years. We accept the fact there are anti-semites. That they will come and go; that we will always have our enemies," he said.

Most rabbis do not fear terrorist attacks on community synagogues, although there is some concern for protecting headquarter buildings such as the Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Chicago, Rabbi Karzen said.

Rabbi Rosen said national publicity makes "stars" out of terrorists and may encourage other desperate people to commit similar acts.

"We are rewarding violence and overt hatred by giving them such publicity," he said. "If I choose the legal channels I'm nobody. But if I walk in with a gun and hold people hostage, suddenly I'm on the front page of newspapers everywhere. We are extending (to terrorists) one of the status symbols of society — publicity."

RABBI KARZEN said a terrorist takeover "is a major incident that can't be ignored, but at the same time one that should not be glorified."

"We're living in a world where this is going to happen, whatever we do. With all the safeguards, there are still hijackings. There will always be a lunatic fringe."

He is philosophical about the fact that Jews are often a target for extremist groups.

"We're always involved," he said. "We are only 2.7 per cent of the population but with all the notoriety we get, you'd think we controlled the country.

"The attention is a compliment. We only wish it didn't have to come in this way."

Search for 'Nessie' to resume

A RADIANT MARGARET Trudeau, wife of the Canadian prime minister, steps from cab outside the New York studio of Richard Avedon where she is studying photographic technique. Mrs. Trudeau Wednesday night told reporters she was not hiding, to quash rumors she secretly left Canada with members of the Rolling Stones rock group.

U.S. missionaries held by invading Angolans

KINSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — Several thousand heavily armed troops invaded Zaire from Angola and captured eight American missionaries, the U.S. Embassy reported Thursday. Zaire told the United Nations its army was engaged in crushing the invasion.

"The national radio has announced that for the past 48 hours several thousand troops, well-armed with sophisticated weapons, have been entering Zaire," the U.S. Embassy spokesman said. He said five of the American missionaries being held under house arrest by the invaders were women.

He said Zaire, a nation the size of the United States region east of the Mississippi, was sending troops to the area but "there have been no reports as to armed contact between the two sides." The Zaire protest to Waldheim said fighting had broken out.

HE SAID THE Zairean towns of Kisenge, Dilolo, and Kapanga had been taken by the invading force and eight American Methodist missionaries were being held under house arrest in Kapanga. Earlier reports said seven missionaries were being held.

"Five of the missionaries being held are women," he said. He said he could not release their names pending notification of next of kin.

The spokesman said there had been no contact between American authorities and the Angolans, but the Americans "were looking into the possibility" of getting out of the area 17 other American missionaries in a nearby town.

THE OTHER MISSIONARIES are in Sandoa, a town still in Zaire hands, he said.

In New York, a letter from Zaire to Waldheim said the attackers were in the pay of the Angolan government and were attacking "villages and economic targets and the towns of Dilolo, Kapanga and the mining center of Kisengi with the obvious aim of paralyzing this key region of our country."

The letter, signed by Ambassador-Umba de Lulete of Zaire, said the army and the people of Zaire were "engaged in crushing the invader who must also be expelled beyond the sacred borders of the nation."

"THE REPUBLIC of Zaire, has just been subjected to a savage and sinister aggression on the part of several columns of mercenaries armed and financed by an independent African state which is moreover a member of the United Nations, the People's Republic of Angola," it said.

The U.S. Embassy spokesman in Kinshasa said three towns taken by the invaders were in a mining region rich in manganese. They are in the province of Shaba, 50 miles from Zaire's southwestern border with Angola.

He said no reason was known for the attack, but there was speculation in Kinshasa that it could be in reprisal for the destruction of a bridge blown up recently in the area or connected with Angolan charges of guerrilla camps in the area.

Aides to arrange Crosstown accord

Gov. James R. Thompson and Chicago Acting Mayor Michael Bilandic Thursday tried to span the gap in positions about the construction of the controversial Crosstown Expressway. The pair agreed to name key aides to continue talks on a compromise to acquire more than $1 billion in federal highway funds earmarked for the project. Bilandic has decided to drop plans for half the road, which will run along Cicero Avenue between the Dan Ryan and Stevenson expressways.

Major differences remain over the cost, exact route and size of the expressway. The project has been a major political controversy between state and city officials for more than four years. Aides to the governor downplayed the fact that Thompson met with Bilandic for 15 minutes in the mayor's 5th floor city hall office. "He said he was willing to go more than half-way. This may have been unusual, but I think you will see a lot of other things like this in the future," said press secretary David Gilbert.

IVI contributions defended

The chairman of the Independent Voters of Illinois has defended the practice of asking for contributions from IVI-endorsed candidates, saying that no money is accepted until the endorsements are made. IVI Chairman Steven Klein said Thursday a special campaign organization is assembled after the endorsements and it contacts the candidates, accepts contributions and allocates money. The special group is disbanded after each election, he said.

A survey conducted by the Chicago Tribune and WTTW-TV commentator Joel Weisman reported Thursday that $62,500 of the $90,000 campaign budget came from candidates the IVI had supported. Klein said candidates know IVI endorsements are not for sale and "there is no pressure on any candidate to contribute." The organization's campaign literature lists all candidates whether they contribute or not, he said.

'Roots' attacker unfit for trial

A 21-year-old man who said the television presentation of "Roots" inspired his attack on two white persons, was found unfit to stand trial Thursday in Cook County Circuit Court. Michael McNair was arrested Jan. 29 for allegedly stabbing William Stewart, 41, and Isabel Hammon, 60, in a South Side grocery store. He reportedly yelled, "All white persons must die," then stabbed Stewart 12 times, and Mrs. Hammon nine times. Both victims were hospitalized several days.

According to police, McNair said after his arrest, "Now I know how Kunta Kinte felt." Kinte was a character in "Roots" who was sold into slavery. Dr. Robert P. Reifman of the Cook County Psychiatric Institute wrote in a letter to the court that McNair was a schizophrenic and suffered paranoia and hallucinations. Cook County Circuit Court Judge Earl E. Strayhorn ordered McNair to appear June 10 for a competency hearing.

Potash case ruled mistrial

A mistrial was declared Thursday in the price fixing conspiracy trial of several potash producers, after the jury told U.S. District Court Judge Prentice H. Marshall further deliberations would be useless. The jury began deliberations March 3 and pondered the fate of the defendants for more than 40 hours before the mistrial was declared.

The mistrial affects International Minerals & Chemical Corp., Libertyville, Ill.; Amax Inc., and its subsidiary Amax Chemical Corp., Greenwich, Conn., and Duval Corp. and its subsidiary Duval Sales Corp., Houston.

Illinois briefs

House approves death penalty bill

The Illinois House Thursday voted resoundingly for a bill restoring the death penalty for certain murders despite arguments capital punishment is morally wrong and will not give society the protection it seeks. The bill (H10), passed 118-41 and sent to the Senate, imposes the death sentence when a jury finds a murder fits into certain categories. Only if there are mitigating circumstances — the killer is under 18 or suffering from extreme mental anguish, for example — can the defendant escape death. All death sentences would be automatically appealed to the Illinois Supreme Court.

In other action:

The House voted to give Gov. James R. Thompson a full year to solve the problem of unlicensed doctors working in state mental health institutions. After a heated procedural debate, the House moved to the passage stage virtually intact a bill which would extend the temporary licenses of about 160 foreign-trained doctors until March 1, 1978. The doctors' licenses expired last June. Thompson ordered them to stop treating patients after it was revealed that many of them late last year failed an informal qualifying examination designed to prepare them for the state licensing test.

Optimism high for secret primary

Several Illinois legislators Thursday said they are optimistic a bill which would allow voters in a primary election to keep their party affiliation secret will make it to the House floor this session. State Reps. Jim Edgar, R-Charleston; Richard Mulcahey, D-Durand; Dave Robinson, D-Springfield; Everett Steele, R-Granite City; and Celeste Stiehl, R-Belleville, are sponsors of the measure, which is a combination of two bills.

Mrs. Stiehl said Gov. James R. Thompson has endorsed the efforts of the group. The bill has 65 cosponsors from both sides of the aisle. "People throughout the state, by both their reluctance to participate in primary elections and direct statements of dissatisfaction with the present election system, are indicating their support for this legislation," Steele said.

Board of Elections may die

The Illinois Board of Elections, at the mercy of the Illinois Supreme Court and the Illinois General Assembly, held what may have been its last board meeting Thursday. The chairman of the board said following the meeting that he doen't expect the legislature to pass a bill by March 22 reconstituting the board. The present board is scheduled to die on that date.

The state Supreme Court recently put the board of elections out of business when it ruled that the present method of appointing members to the board and the way a tie is broken are unconstitutional. Franklin Lunding said the supreme court is expected to consider the case further on March 22 but he said there has been no indication of when the court will enter its final order abolishing the board.

Lawrenceville making bid for new state prison

by TONI GINNETTI

Illinois corrections officials are considering a proposal from community leaders in Downstate Lawrenceville to build a new medium security adult prison there.

Acting Corrections Director Charles Rowe has met with State Rep. Roscoe Cunningham, R-Lawrenceville, and city leaders there and has sent a favorable report of the meeting to Gov. James R. Thompson.

Lawrenceville, about 240 miles south of Chicago, has offered 160 acres of municipally owned land free to the state and has documented the availability of necessary medical and educational services, sewer, water and sanitation facilities for a prison.

THE COMMUNITY is hoping to win approval for a proposed medium security facility that would house up to 500 prisoners. The facility would cost an estimated $20 million, according to Rowe, and would employ some 300 persons.

Thompson has asked the state legislature for $25 million for capital improvements in the corrections department in his fiscal 1978 budget proposal. Approval of a prison site and construction funding must come from the governor and the Illinois General Assembly.

Sources close to Thompson said the Lawrenceville site is under consideration but declined to say if it is a prime site.

However, Rowe said he was "favorable impressed" with the site and has sent Thompson a memo outlining his findings.

LAWRENCEVILLE IS one of two Downstate areas actively seeking the prison. The other is in the Saline County area near Harrisburg, the home district of State Rep. Robert Winchester.

Winchester said Wednesday he is attempting to find a prison site within the four-county area of Saline, Hardin, Pope and Gallatin counties. He said he has asked the Southeastern Illinois Planning Agency in Harrisburg to determine possible sites and has invited Rowe to visit the area later this month.

Both the Downstate communities are seeking the facility for desperately needed jobs and an economic stimulus for their areas. Both Cunningham and Winchester said their communities are backing the efforts.

Rowe confirmed Wednesday that he met last Saturday with Cunningham, the city mayor and the judge of the local circuit court to view the Lawrenceville site.

THE SITE IS part of a 332-acre World War II bomber base deeded to the City of Lawrenceville after the war, Cunningham said. He said a portion of the site is used for the municipal airport but most is farmed.

"It has been laying dormant for the last four or five years and there has been a recurring attempt to put it to use to benefit the community," Cunningham said.

"There is no question that we need a new facility," Rowe said. "I must admit those people have done their homework. The land is there and it is excellent land, six miles from Vincennes, Ind., and three miles from Lawrenceville."

A new prison facility is being proposed because of critical overcrowding in the state's adult prisons, a situation documented in The Herald last week.

ROWE HAS warned if the situation is not corrected, violence could break out in prisons this summer.

Cunningham said he has sent letters to Thompson but has not yet discussed the proposal with him personally.

He added, however, that Thompson told him privately at a gathering recently that "another representative," Winchester, requested that his home area be considered for a prison site.

MSD to ask state for 38% tax increase

The Metropolitan Sanitary District will ask the state to increase its real estate taxes 38 per cent during the next three years, adding $14 to the tax bill of a home assessed at $10,000.

The MSD commissioners Thursday voted for the tax hike while calling for $5,000 raises in their own salaries. This would increase the salaries of most commissioners to $30,000, while MSD Board President Nicholas Melas would receive $37,500.

The tax hike is estimated to produce an additional $32 million for the district. Bart Lynam, MSD general superintendent, said the funds are needed to cover increased operating costs.

LYNAM SAID $12 million is needed to cover increased energy costs, $9 million for salary increases and $5 million for increased disposal charges.

If approved, the tax increase means the district would double its taxes in the five years between 1975 and 1980.

In 1975, the district's total levy was 39 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. With the proposed increase in the district's corporate tax, the total levy is expected to be more than 80 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Both the pay increase and the tax hike passed by votes of 6 to 2.

COMR. RICHARD J. Troy voted against both increases and Comr. Jerome Cosentino joined him in opposing the tax hike. Both argued homeowners could not afford another real estate tax increase and urged other methods of financing be investigated.

Comr. Joanne Alter voted against the pay raise, saying the 13 to 20 per cent pay increases for commissioners were inconsistent with the 3 per cent raises given district employes.

The tax hike would be phased over a three-year period to reduce its impact. The corporate tax would increase from the present 36.3 cents to 42 cents in 1978, 84 cents in 1979 and 50 cents thereafter.

The commissioners' last pay increase goes into effect this term. Those elected in 1972 and 1974 currently receive $20,000 a year, but will be earning $25,000 at the expiration of the current term. Commissioners elected this fall receive $25,000.

The $5,000 pay hikes will increase the salary of vice president William Jaskula to $35,000 and finance chairman James C. Kirie to $32,500.

Requests for the tax hike and pay increases will be included in a legislative program forwarded to Springfield for the current session.

As part of the program, the MSD board is asking that the state waive formal bidding on purchases of less than $5,000. The commissioners also are asking that board approval not be required for purchases under $5,000.

Judge refuses to delay unit vote

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

A Cook County Circuit Court judge Thursday denied High School Dist. 214's request for a preliminary injunction to delay the April 9 referendum on the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district.

Judge George Schaller's ruling came three days after supporters of the proposed unit district filed a motion asking for the dismissal of Dist. 214's request.

The request for the injunction was the first step in Dist. 214's lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of allowing only Elk Grove Township residents to vote on establishing the unit district within the high school district's boundaries.

DIST. 214 ATTY. Gerald Brooks said the notices for an appeal will be filed today in Illinois Appellate Court. An emergency hearing before a three-judge panel will be requested and Brooks said he expects the case will be heard within the next two weeks.

"We'll take it right on up to the U.S. Supreme Court if we have to," he said.

Brooks and Schaller told him he thinks the state law establishing the voter eligibility requirements for a unit district referendum is a "terrible one," but there isn't anything he can do about it.

"He preferred not to rock the boat and the easiest thing for him to do is to let the appellate court decide," Brooks said. "Anyone who had read the briefs would have had more comment than he had."

THE UNIT DISTRICT would combine 21 Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 elementary and junior high schools, and Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village under one school board and administration.

Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts in the Dist. 214 area.

According to state law, only Dist. 59 residents will be eligible to vote in the April 9 unit district referendum.

A bill that would amend state law and allow all residents of Dist. 214 to vote in the referendum is before the Illinois House of Representatives.

Brooks said two "very substantial" U.S. Constitutional issues involving equal protection of the law are at stake in the case.

The state's provisions for formation of a unit district is the only instance of detachment or annexation in which all reisdents affected by the change are not allowed to vote, Brooks said.

"THE LAW IS A case of arbitrary discrimination by the Illinois General Assembly," he said. "The state cannot draw lines prejudicial to any of its citizenry."

In his brief, William Murphy, attorney for the committee of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed the petition seeking formation of the unit district, said the courts already have upheld the Constitutionality of the state law in question.

Brooks said these decisions since have been overridden by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Brooks also is challenging the state law's prohibition of a court review in the matter. The law provides that the superintendent of public instruction has the final say in deciding whether a referendum will be called on a unit district proposal, and that it cannot be reviewed in the courts.

Dist. 214's suit contends State Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin "usurped the power" of the State Board of Education by approving the Elk Grove Township unit district petition and calling for a referendum.

"THE LAW CLEARLY says the duties of the superintendent of pubic instruction shall be assumed by the state board of education," Brooks said. "Cronin is there to administer day-to-day operations and to formulate recommendations to the board. The dissolution of the largest high school district in the state is not a day-to-day matter."

Dave Smith, an attorney for the Illinois Office of Education said his office's position is that the matter was handled properly and that if Dist. 214 doesn't agree they will have to prove their point in court.

"The broad and all encompassing general delegation of authority under which Supt. Cronin acted in this case is similar to the same delegation of authority that we find in any other state officer," Murphy wrote in his legal brief.

"To deny its validity would throw into turmoil the powers, duties and responsibilities of many of our state and local officers."

2 plans for sale of North School

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 is exploring two plans for the sale of North School, which has been closed since June because of declining enrollment and dwindling finances in the district's coffers.

The Dist. 25 Board of Education Thursday directed the administration to draw up two proposals for the public auction of the school, one with the sale conditional on the purchaser acquiring the zoning he desires for the property and the other with no conditions tied to the sale.

North School, 410 N. Arlington Heights Rd., currently is leased to Summit School, a private school for exceptional children and the Northwest Opportunity Center, Arlington Heights.

IF NORTH SCHOOL is sold, both agencies have said they would be willing to move to Wilson School, 15 E. Palatine Rd., which is slated for closing at the end of the current school year, Supt. Donald Strong said.

"Every projection we've gotten has shown that the chances of our needing all our schools again is very remote," Board Pres. Joan Klussman said. "Because of its age and its limitations as an educational facility, we should be thinking of putting North on the market."

Strong said a church group already has indicated a real interest in bidding on the 2.5-acre school property.

An appraisal received by the district indicates a minimum bid of $500,000 would have to be set on the property, he said.

MAKING THE SALE conditional on the purchaser achieving desired zoning from the village would draw more bidders and command a higher price for the property, board member Bruce Chelberg said.

"There's always the risk that the condition won't be met and we'll have wasted nine months, but it's a worthwhile gamble to try for the higher price," he said.

Chelberg said he hopes the district can hold the school auction by midyear so the purchaser could begin building by next spring.

"Now is a very good time to put the school on the market," he said. "Mortgage money is plentiful at moderately reasonable rates. If we wait too much longer the picture could change."

A $500,000 deficit is projected in the district by the 1979-80 fiscal year.

Griffith heads Perkins' campaign

William F. Griffith, 8 W. Euclid Ave., has been named chairman of the Citizens "4" Perkins committee backing Leonard F. Perkins as an independent candidate for Arlington Heights trustee in the April 5 municipal election.

Griffith also is campaign chairman for the Wheeling Township Republicans.

Six coordinators will head Perkins' various campaign committees: James Barnes, Marilyn Heffernan, Joseph Hurley, Gerri Kabat, Patricia Scudder and Donald Storino.

Fred Turner will serve as treasurer of the organization.

Perkins' campaign headquarters will be at 1139 N. Ridge Ave.

The Perkins committee has announced a fund-raising event Friday, March 18 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, Douglas and Miner streets. The party will feature all you can eat and drink. Tickets are $5 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Salt-creek write-in vote urged by two residents

A write-in campaign for a six-year term on the Salt Creek Rural Park District Board is being promoted by two district residents who call candidates Eveline Stenzel and Siegmar Olaf Schneider "unsatisfactory."

Howard A. Pettinger, 173 Arlene Ave., Palatine, and Richard J. Doubek, 1327 E. Kenilworth Ave., Palatine, said it would be "impossible" for either candidate to work with board members because of a conflict between them and the board.

They did not recommend a write-in candidate.

They referred to a meeting Tuesday in which Ms. Stenzel called on the entire park board to resign, saying, "I don't want to serve with men whose integrity is in question."

"MS. STENZEL, presently a candidate for the vacant position on the park district board, assured us that her comments would not be a campaign speech," Pettinger and Doubek said in a written statement. "Unfortunately, this was anything but true and she proceeded to present her feelings in a theatrical and dramatic manner in what appeared to be an effort to incite those present into a shouting match."

"Ms. Stenzel stated specifically that even though she is now a candidate for commissioner . . . she does not wish to serve on the board, and she also indicated that she would like to withdraw from the election (this statment was made even though she knew legally she could not do this)," Pettinger and Doubek stated.

Pettinger and Doubek said Ms. Stenzel apparently "has a personal vendetta against those presently serving on the board, as indicated by her comments concerning their integrity, honor and ethics of their supposed attempt to violate freedom of the press."

Ms. Stenzel's comments on the "attempt to violate freedom of the press" referred to a request by Park Board Pres. Walter Peppler at a meeting last Saturday. Peppler asked to review with a Herald reporter what would be written in an account of the meeting. He previously had requested that everything said at the meeting be quoted verbatim.

PETTINGER AND Doubek stated that "her comments (at the meeting Tuesday) were totally uncalled for and that her feelings concerning her possible election to the board and the present board members would make it impossible for the park district board to serve the . . . district satisfactorily, should she be elected."

The letter stated that Schneider said he has similar feelings toward the present board members.

"Since the residents of the Salt Creek Rural Park District presently have only a choice between Eveline Stenzel and Olaf Schneider and since both have indicated that they do not wish to serve on the board," the letter stated, "I demand the resignation of the one who wins the election."

Park district courts now open for play

The Arlington Heights Park District's eight new handball-racquetball courts are open for play.

The courts, 800 E. Falcon Dr., can be reserved for $5 per hour from 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and nights during the weekends and for $7 an hour after 5:30 p.m. weekdays and days during the weekend.

Memberships to the club are available for $15 for youths under 19, $20 per adult, $40 per family and $90 per corporation, up to five individuals.

Memberships expire September 1978.

Members may reserve courts a week in advance, charge their court fees and use the whirlpool and sauna, Bob Sampson of the park district said.

The grand opening of the courts will be the week of March 19. During that time residents may use the courts without charge and members will receive free house plants and a book about racquetball.

PRESIDENT CARTER smiles as he listens to British Prime Minister James Callaghan speak during welcoming ceremonies on the South Lawn of the White House. The ceremny omitted the traditional 19-gun salute for fear the guns would provoke a response from Hanafi Muslims holding hostages at the nearby District Building — Washington's City Hall.

Senate approves public works bill

After a day-long battle among states, the Senate voted Thursday to give the most money to states with the highest unemployment rates in a $4 billion bill for public works employment. The 56 to 32 vote was a victory for states such as California, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Oregon and Washington, all with jobless rates over 9 per cent. It was a defeat for states such as Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin, which have slightly lower percentage unemployment although some of them have large numbers of people out of work.

The vote rejected an amendment by Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., which would have distributed the $4 billion entirely on the basis of the number of unemployed persons in each state. The Senate was to vote later on passage of the bill, which includes both the $4 billion for public works jobs and $10 billion to continue water treatment projects around the country.

Ohio gunman facing 50 years

A black gunman faces a maximum 50 years in prison and a $20,000 fine if convicted of two kidnaping charges filed in the aftermath of a 45-hour siege at suburban Warrensville Heights City Jail. Cory Moore, 26, Warrensville Heights, unable to post $200,000 bond, was being held in the Cuyahoga County Jail Thursday. Moore surrendered Wednesday after being assured that President Carter would listen to Moore's demands concerning blacks.

During his reign of terror, Moore held Police Capt. Leo M. Keglovic, 49, a diabetic, and Shelly Kiggans, 17, a part-time court clerk, hostage. Neither was harmed. The girl was released 11 hours after the siege began Monday afternoon and the policeman was freed when Moore surrendered. Warrensville Heights Police Prosecutor Howard Stern said the kidnaping charges filed against Moore will be taken to the County Grand Jury before Monday.

$250,000 bail set for Boyle

Bail of $250,000 was set Thursday for W. A. "Tony" Boyle, the former United Mine Workers president awaiting a new trial for the 1969 slayings of arch union rival Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter. The state Supreme Court on Jan. 28 ordered a new trial for the 74-year-old Boyle, who was convicted in April 1974 of plotting the assassination of Yablonski and sentenced to three consecutive life terms.

Delaware County Preident Judge Francis J.Catania, who presided at Boyle's original trial, set bail after hearing arguments from Special Prosecutoor Richard A. Sprague, and A. Charles Peruto, the defense attorney. Catania then ordered that Boyle, who is in the hospital ward at the State Correctional Institution in Pittsburgh, be transferred to a state prison in eastern Pennsylvania to be more readily available to confer with his attorney until bail can be raised.

Greatest 'pot' danger is auto

Marijuana's greatest danger involves operation of motor vehicles rather than the more widely publicized alarms about biological damage, according to a government report released Thursday. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in its sixth annual report on "Marijuana and Health," also said marijuana use has become part of America's cultural mainstream, joining such "recreational" drugs as alcohol, tobacco and caffeine.

The report estimated there are 15 million marijuana smokers in the United States and that use of the drug "is more than a fad and may well prove to be an enduring cultural pattern in the United States. In releasing the report, Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of HEW's National Institute on Drug Abuse, said marijuana is an intoxicant, much like alcohol, and his greatest concern about the drug "is its potential effect on automobile accidents in this country."

PLO hits Carter Mideast plan

A top Palestinian leader in Cairo Thursday dismissed President Carter's proposals for a compromise Middle East peace pact as "an Israeli idea in an American tongue" and said Washington is pursuing "a wrong policy. It is easy to know that Carter's statement is an Israeli idea in an American tongue. It is Israeli logic in an American language," said Abdel-Mohsen Abu-Maizer, member of the Palestine Liberation Organization's executive committee.

He referred to Carter's suggestion at a Washington news conference Wednesday that as part of a peace pact, Israel should give up most of the Arab lands it captured in the 1967 war, although Israeli "defense lines" could extend beyond the pre-1967 borders. Abu-Maizer said he was also piqued by Carter's failure to mention Palestinian "rights" at the news conference and warned little headway would be made toward peace unless the United States recognized those rights.

Amin wants to replace Queen

President Idi Amin of Uganda said Thursday he should replace Queen Elizabeth as head of the British Commonwealth and would propose such a move at the next Commonwealth conference in London this summer. Amin, who returned from Cairo and the world's first Afro-Arab summit with a group of black Americans from the World Community of Islam who came at his special invitation, also said the PLO had put three squadrons of warplanes at his disposal.

Amin repeated he intended to go to the Commonwealth conference in London where he will ask other heads of state to elect him head of the Commonwealth in place of the Queen. Amin said he saw no reason why "the Queen should always hold the post since Britain no longer has an empire."

AN ELDERLY WOMAN who lost her husband and brother in the Romanian earthquake waits at mortuary gates to identify some of the many mutilated bodies in the Bucharest courtyard.

Romania pleads for world help

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — President Nicolae Ceasescu appealed to the world to help rescue Romania from its $1 billion earthquake disaster and said United States generosity will dictate his response to President Carter's stand on human rights.

Ceausescu dismissed the United States warning of the likelihood of another earthquake in the near future. He said the recovery effort will not set back Romania's economic development, but that it will cause hardship for the nation of 21 million people.

"I expect to see how President Carter will act when people have so much suffering, then I will say what I think (about human rights)," the Communist leader said in reply to a question at a news conference.

"FOR THE TIME being, I thank (Carter) for the words of compassion he sent," Ceausescu said. "For this moment, this gesture of humanitarianism is appreciated."

"We are expecting very much from the labor of the Romanian people," Ceausescu said. He asked the United States, other western nations and the Communist bloc to support Romania's recovery.

"We are determined to change nothing in our development program," the president said during a 70-minute news conference at the old royal palace. "I am convinced we can overcome our difficulties and fulfill our economic and social plans. This is our challenge."

Romania has set the cost of the quake last Friday night at $1 billion. The jolt, which measured 7.2 on the Richter scale of intensity, killed more than 1,300 persons — the official figure, certain to rise — injured more than 10,000 and left 80,000 persons homeless.

U.S. SCIENTISTS warned Wednesday that another major quake could strike Romania within days or months, but Ceausescu said this was mere "supposition." He apparently was attempting to play down scare headlines that could panic the population.

Ceausescu said the quake's effect on industry and agriculture will be matched by Romanians' hard work. Plans to reduce the normal work week from 48 to 42 hours will be postponed for one year, he said, but otherwise there will be no drastic revision of the economic plan.

"We would be grateful if countries from the west, east, north and south could grant us loans under advantageous conditions," he said. "Of course, I mean the United States as well."

Ceausescu, in a gray suit and cream turtleneck sweater, said industrial production since the earthquake was up 20 per cent to 30 per cent in order to make up for the lost time and to meet quotas.

Of 200 factories closed by quake damage, he said, all but three or four are back in operation. He said exports and foreign trade generally will not be affected, and the beef industry will not be hurt even though thousands of livestock died. Romania is a big meat exporter, and the U.S. Army is one of its biggest customers.

Health center to open Monday in Meadows

A nonprofit medical center will open full time in Rolling Meadows Monday, offering inexpensive health care to anyone who seeks it.

Barbara Michelin, director of the Pembury Health Care Center, 1545 Hicks Rd., said no one will be turned away from the center, which offers services at approximately 40 to 50 per cent below the rates charged by private physicians in the area.

The center will occupy the same building that houses the Crossroads Clinic, a center for teen-agers which Michelin also directs, but will have different hours. Pembury will be open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

CROSSROADS OPERATES in the evenings and sees patients seeking birth control information, abortion referral and treatment for venereal disease.

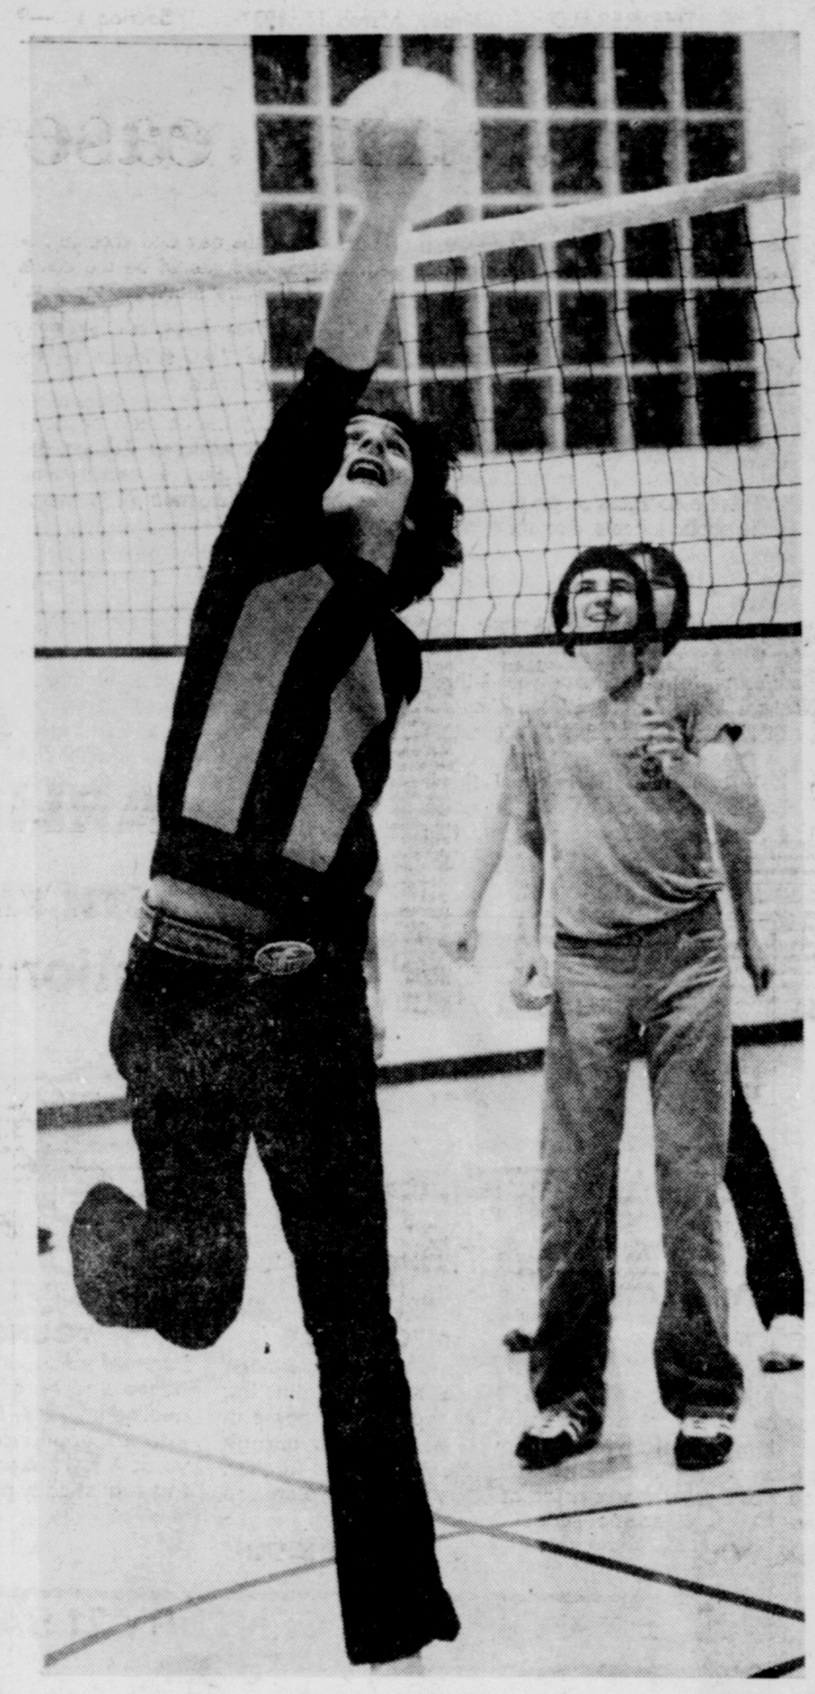

Michelin said an initial office visit at Pembury will cost $10, with subsequent visits costing $8. A blood pressure check and a throat culture each will cost $2. The charge for shots will vary according to what it costs the clinic. "All services are based on cost," Michelin said.

Michelin has requested grants of $10,000 in seed money from Palatine, Schaumburg, Wheeling and Elk Grove townships. Last week Elk Grove Township granted her the money, but the other townships are still considering her request. Michelin said she is counting on patient fees to keep the clinic open.

"We don't have much money, but we have to charge ahead," she said.

PEMBURY HAS been operating two mornings a week since October, treating about 10 patients a day.

The patients Michelin expects to see at the clinic are "people who aren't seeing doctors because they can't afford it." She said a lot of elderly people will use the clinic as well as many of the area's Spanish speaking residents.

Village board wrapup

Plan to form event panel rejected

A proposal to create a community events commission was rejected 4 to 4 this week by the Arlington Heights village board.

The creation of the commission was requested by Dwight Walton, chairman of the village's Bicentennial commission which will disband in April.

Walton had asked that the permanent commission replace the Bicentennial and festival committees, which planned the Fourth of July and Bicentennial events last summer.

The Community Events Commission would select community improvement projects each year and conduct an annual town meeting and festival week, Walton said.

"We've had a festival committee for several years, but not until last year when we got under the umbrella of the village did we get the support and financial assistance we need to accomplish big projects," Walton said.

Several board members, however, objected to the proposal because of questions concerning the village's liability and financial responsibilities.

Added Bell parking approved

The addition of 84 parking spaces at Illinois Bell Telephone Company's parking lot at 1200 N. Arlington Heights Rd. was approved Monday by the village board.

The Illinois Bell plan was opposed by several homeowners in the area during plan commission hearings because it did not meet sewer retention requirements, but the grading plan for the site has been changed to meet the village's requirements.

Reflective signs used on mailboxes

Mailboxes in Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows are being used to test new reflective signs designed to make it easier to see when the last daily pickups are made.

Arlington Heights Postmaster Donald Swanson said the new signs with five-inch figures have been placed on approximately 80 collection boses.

The test is to determine whether the signs should be used throughout the 13-state central postal region, Swanson said.

Town's full of book worms, library reports

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library ranked third in total circulation last year in Illinois.

Executive Librarian Frank J. Dempsey said 913,336 items were checked out by local residents.

"This is remarkable because we have no branches," Dempsey said. "This is a very sophisticated community of avid readers and the educational level is considerably above average."

The Chicago Public Library was first in circulation with 9,122,341 items, followed by Rockford with 1,270,231.

Other Illinois cities, in order of library circulation figures, are Peoria with 819,153, Evanston with 739,988, Springfield with 714,235, Skokie with 613,624 and Aurora with 584,021.

Others with more than a half million circulation are Schaumburg with 571,522, Oak Park with 564,542 and Decatur with 512,095.

Two hundred-hour pins were awarded to Joan Cuzzort of Arlington Heights, Ruth Anderson of Palatine and Peggy Hennemuth of Mount Prospect.

Pins for 300 volunteer hours went to Betty Brandau, Sara Roberts and Rose DeVries, all of Arlington Heights, and Mildred Koebel of Rolling Meadows.

Home study loses Wisconsin case

by DICK DAHL

The Christian Liberty Academy, Prospect Heights, has come up a loser in a Wisconsin court showdown.

A Wausau jury Tuesday found Joann Baumann of rural Edgar, Wis., guilty of breaking state law by keeping her 10-year-old son, David, out of school under the home-study program operated nationally by the conservative Prospect Heights school.

A defense motion for a mistrial, however, has been filed. and the academy's headmaster, the Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, 203 E. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights, said there is a good chance Marathon County Judge Robert Dean will uphold the motion.

LINDSTROM SAID five jurors admitted they read a newspaper account of the trial in the Wausau Record-Herald.

The newspaper story, he said, "included matters discussed in closed session when the jury was out of the room."

The judge also failed to instruct the jurors to stop reading newspapers or watching television, Lindstrom said.

"He simply instructed them not to talk about the case among themselves," during the two-hour dinner break when the newspaper was read, Lindstrom said.

The case marks the first time the academy has been taken to court for its home-study program, which has been in operation since 1970. About 170 school children in 27 states are enrolled.

The curriculum of the home-study program includes use of conservative textbooks that contain references to Christianity and the Bible.

THE COURSE also includes exchanges of taped personalized lessons from the academy's staff.

Baumann was found guilty because the home-study program is not certified with the state, as is required of home-study programs by Wisconsin law.

Lindstrom, who spent two hours on the witness stand Monday, said the defense argued the program is affiliated with a recognized, established church school in Brookfield, Wis.

The Brookfield school was established in 1970 with the help of the Christian Liberty Academy. Lindstrom said the Brookfield school is independent from the Christian Liberty Academy, but the two schools' curriculums are nearly identical.

Mrs. Baumann said in a telephone interview, she and her husband decided to withdraw David from Edgar Public School last September because of dissatisfaction with the public school system. Her husband is the Rev. Carl Baumann, pastor of the Life Science Church of Edgar.

"WE BELIEVED (the public school's) teaching tends to be very atheistic," Mrs. Baumann said. "Science leaves God out of everything on the earth.

"Aslso, some of the things that have occurred in the Edgar school, things I objected to, are things I call pornography: filmstrips showing younng children all the nude art pieces available and calling them great masterpieces. I don't feel children should be exposed to this kind of art."

Lindstrom argued that making the Baumanns send their child to a public school against their will is an infringement on their First-Amendment rights.

The question of constitutionality was not allowed to come before the jury, Lindstrom said.

But if the motion for mistrial is dismissed, the academy is prepared to appeal the case to the Wisconsin Supreme Court and again raise the question of constitutionality.

The academy also argued Mrs. Baumann was wrongly charged by the state in that her husband was the person who signed the documents for the home-study program.

MRS. BAUMANN said she feels she was charged because "it would look foolish to prosecute a minister for choosing to enroll his son in a Christian school."

If the judge dismisses the motion for mistrial, David will not be sent back to the public school, Mrs. Baumann emphasized.

"There are other alternatives," she said. "There are other private church schools within 30-40 miles of here. I'd rather drive that distance every day than send him back to the public school.

"There's no Bible or prayer or God in the public schools. For six or seven hours out of the day God shouldn't be eliminated. God should be the center of our lives every minute of the day."

Lindstrom has said the academy plans to have 1,000 students on the home-study program.

The academy has on retainer the legal services of attorney William Ball of Harrisburg, Pa., a constitutional lawyer, in anticipation of a major court battle.

If your village is so big, how come you don't have a post office?

The way we see it

Area needs post office

Through rain, snow, sleet and dead of night — residents of Buffalo Grove must go to Wheeling to use the post office.

That made sense when Buffalo Grove was a scattering of houses in the middle of cornfields. Today about 20,000 persons live in the village and they deserve a convenient place to buy their stamps and mail their packages.

The Buffalo Grove Village Board this week approved a resolution urging the U.S. Postal Service to open a post office in the community. We second that proposal.

Other communities of similar size to Buffalo Grove have their own post offices — or rather, more precisely, branch post offices. Convenient postal service is thus available for residents of Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village. It should be available in Buffalo Grove.

One member of the Buffalo Grove Village Board has suggested that the post office be located in a vacant store in the Buffalo Grove Mall, Arlington Heights and Dundee roads.

That location would be a good one; but the key is to provide service to the village. The postal service should pursue that goal at whatever location makes the most sense from the standpoint of convenience and economics.

Responsibility another school fad?

Who ought to be responsible for teaching responsibility?

That is the first question that comes to mind with the recent announcement that local school districts and the Illinois Office of Education are getting involved in something called "responsibility education."

Two separate programs are being discussed by local educators. The state education office is working on a program of responsibility education centers which they have asked the Illinois legislature to fund with $1 million.

In Wheeling Township Dist. 21, officials are using a special teacher-training course called "Education for Responsibility" funded by Lilly Endowment Inc. of Indianapolis Ind.

School officials describe responsibility education as teaching children "a sense of responsibility for themselves, their fellow citizens and their natural environment as well as the skills and knowledge necessary to act in a responsible way."

Those are good things. We thought those goals were a part of all education.

Maybe we are wrong. Maybe without the new responsibility education programs, schools would not deal with the issue at all. After all, there are a lot of irresponsible people in the world. Maybe they didn't get a unit on responsibility in school.

However, maybe "responsibility education," like "career education" and "life adjustment education" before it, is just another educational fad.

Such fads probably do little harm. But their impact in the past has been minimal.

"Responsibility" is too important to suffer such a fate.

A decision for equality

Advocates of equal rights for men and women must be heartened by the U.S. Supreme Court decision last week that widowers are eligible to collect Social Security benefits earned by their wives.

The ruling may cause financial problems for the Social Security system, but it is an important step toward providing equity for male and female workers.

An example of the current inequity was highlighted by the case of George Plate, a widower who lives with his daughter and son-in-law in Schaumburg Township.

Plate's late wife Estelle worked much of her life, most of the time under Social Security. But when she died, Plate was not entitled to any of the benefits her taxes had accumulated, even though she would have been eligible for his benefits if the situation had been reversed.

The Social Security law discriminated against Plate because it required men to prove they were dependent on their wives to collect benefits. No such proof was required of wives.

The Supreme Court ruling ends that basic unfairness and must be considered a major step forward on the road to equal rights.

The cars were a bargain except for the center sag

Jim Bishop

Big John threatened to arrest Uncle Willy several times. It was a family scandal. Unk was my mother's brother and he used to run the numbers on Jackson Avenue at Bayview. He was easy to spot. At 20 paces he looked like a bowling ball on top of a hogshead of Jello.

My old man didn't bag Uncle Willy because such an act would cause Momma to go into one of her long silences, times when she would speak to Big John through the children.

On the other hand, certain forces in City Hall kept reminding Lieutenant Bishop that numbers was a city run business. They had their own poor on the streets taking dimes and quarters from the poor.

AND YET, UNK could talk a good case. He reminded Big John that he had whizzed through school up to and including the sixth grade of elementary and had then whizzed out into the world.

This had left him slightly short on academic credits and he had not realized that his chances of becoming president had been reduced. He could add and subtract with a pencil he wet on his tongue. For him, it was running the numbers or nothing.

"Get off the street," Big John said diplomatically, "or I'll run you in." Unk got off the street. He retired to Murtagh's salon on Bergen Avenue. It was a place where Willy had his own stool.

Willy was a likable man. No matter which side of a question a customer espoused, Uncle Willy was with him. He was the kind of upright man who would take a shot at a kid who would do grocery shopping for a lady who was known to tip a quarter.

HE WAS SIPPING lager in Murtagh's one night when a welder sat beside him. This man was known as a local genius who had a fresh idea for making a million every week. This time he had an idea for Uncle Willy.

The welder whispered. Unk cocked a tin ear. The city, the man said, is full of junk yards — right? Right. Full of old cars — right? Three stories high, Unk said. Well, the welder said, why can't we buy the undamaged front part of an automobile and weld it to an uncrushed back half?

How's that? Unk said. Suppose, the man said, we find a car totalled in the rear end? We pay the man a few bucks and buy it. Then we look in other boneyards for the same model car with a front-end collision. We buy it, saw the bad ends off, and weld the good parts together.

WILLY REQUIRED two beers — on the welder — to think about it. He marveled. I wonder, he said, why Ford and G.M. and American Motors never thought of this? Because, the welder said, tapping his temple, they are dense.

Bee-you-tee-full, said Willy. The welder said that Uncle Willy would have to furnish the pittance to buy the wrecks. He, the welder, would furnish the labor and skill.

Uncle Willy seldom had a dime. If he had, he'd have played the numbers instead of booking them. There wasn't a banker who would nod at Unk if he fell on the sidewalk in a fit. So he went to a shylock.

Shylocks do not compete with each other. They give $5 for $6 a week, even if you live in Madagascar. This is a clear violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

WILLY GOT THE dough. The welder matched the cars. He sealed two good ends of automobiles together. Then they were painted. The two men were buying for $40 and selling for $350. Some of the buyers got on the highway and were never seen again.

A few customers parked their cars, pulled up the brake, heard a ripping, tearing sound and watched the middle sag to the ground.

My old man picked Uncle Willy up at Murtagh's. He wanted to have a little talk. There was never a time when Unk wanted to speak to Dad alone, or to listen either. They got into the car and started down Communipaw Avenue. "I spoke to some of the powers," Big John said, "and they said if you'll move off Bayview and Jackson — maybe go out to the car barns — they'll allow you to run your silly little business."

UNK WAS PLEASED. He'd move. A radio call came in that a police officer needed assistance at Grand Street and Summit. My old man poured the coal on the car.

"New car?" Willy said. "Yeah," Dad said. "It's worth $800. I got it for $350 from a dizzy welder." Willy froze in the seat. Too late. Big John was doing 55 when he made a fast left at Grand Street.

I never found out which one was more surprised when the rear half of the car passed the front doing 65 . . .

He says TV did hatchet job on McCarthy

letters to the editor

Several weeks ago the news/entertainment media gave us another vivid example of brainwashing under the guise of historical entertainment. I am referring to the hatchet job that was sanctimoniously performed on the late Senator Joe McCarthy by NBC-TV. It was like having the prosecuting attorney also serve as the defense attorney. Ironically, McCarthy was portrayed by the same Peter Boyle who accompanied Jane Fonda to North Vietnam proclaiming the righteousness of the Communist effort. McCarthy was and is a controversial figure, but couldn't the program have at least presented his basic position in a cohesive manner?

If we had the benefit of historically objective reporting coupled with a moral power base, events of the past decade would clearly vindicate McCarthy's concern for our country. Young people cannot learn through history when it's distorted by self-serving interests. The program failed to acknowledge that many young elitists of the '20s and '30s were enamored with socialism, including the Communist variety, and by the '40s were in influential positions covertly affecting the policy of the United States. Even when the ugliness of Communism became apparent, many refused to refute it and admit a mistake of naive idealism. We cannot ignore Alger Hiss who was prominent in formulating the UN charter or the Rosenbergs who were instrumental in transmitting atomic bomb secrets to Communist Russia.

Perhaps McCarthy errored in not recognizing or elucidating the probability that Communism is only a tool of international power brokers to help achieve their goal of a one-world government dominated by an elite few. Surely we are witnessing their success through the powerful tax exempt foundations in seriously erroding the authority of both parents and religion in molding future citizens as the government becomes increasingly totalitarian and influential in all areas of our lives.

As we are subtly steered into a one-world government, witness the spectacle of an Helsinki agreement that sanctions the past Russian Communist expansionism at the expense of freedom in Poland, Ukrainia, Lithuania, etc., loans to Russia while the American economy faulters, unilateral disarmament advocate Paul Warnke who is being proposed as director of the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, pacifist Ted Sorensen being proposed to head the CIA and the inhumanity of Russian Communism as documented by Solzhenitsyn.

After observing all the "happenings," I can only conclude that McCarthy's general fears and allegations were well founded and essentially correct. I also suspect that Joe McCarthy has fared far better than his detractors on his judgment before God.

'Meadows may become signsville'

At the meeting of Feb. 22, the Rolling Meadows City Council approved an oversize free standing sign for the new Woolco store on Kirchoff.

This sign will exceed ordinance provisions by 25 per cent in height, and more than twice as large in face area. In addition, Woolco will have a large wall sign, about 30 feet long also illuminated.

Add to this the signs that Mr. Bolger will require when his plans for "Kirchoff Market" materialize, and for the additional shops to be erected west of the Butera store. It is evident that this "dark corner" is destined to become a veritable blaze of neon. Energy shortage, you say? Not when it comes to signs! Remember, too, if Woolco can have an oversize sign, the other merchants have rights too right down the street, as competitive pressure intensifies. Result: Signsville!

The poor council has a problem. They need money. Anything that might produce more sales tax revenue is welcome. Trouble is, increased sales at Woolco will be substantially offset by a corresponding reduction somewhere else — with the net gain in sales tax to the city only a trickle.

Operating expenses of the city are soaring with more to come, and sales taxes can't keep up. We probably won't know the budget score until after the April 19 election — but other taxes are around the corner — even if we throw the sign ordinance out the window. Ask your friendly alderman.

One thing certain, though: we are going to have a Jim Dandy sign at Woolco . . . Red letters on a big white background . . . And maybe some orange. Orange?

'Story misled'

I have come to expect more accurate and objective reporting from the Wheeling Herald than I found on your front page Wed., March 2. The caption "45% Tax Hike if Golf Links Vote Passes" was certainly eye-catching but also subject to the immediate and inaccurate interpretation that the total bill would be increased by 45 rather than the present Wheeling Park District rate of 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The clarification attempted in your lead sentence was promptly undone by the subsequent statement that "a park district resident with a home assessed at $10,000 would see his tax bill increase from $40 to $50 as an average." Your reporter's arithmetic is incomprehensible. A rate increase of 18 cents per year (as estimated by Mr. Phillips) will mean an $18 per year increase on the present $40 per year park district levy on a house assessed at $10,000.

I hope that we will see a better attention to detail and a reduction in "scare" reporting as further discussions of the Wheeling Park District bond issue develop.

Paul A. Johnson
Wheeling

(The story referred to by Mr. Johnson was the victim of a typographical error. A correction published March 3 explained that the projected increase in the tax bill was incorrect. Most recent estimates by park district officials indicate the tax bill for the average resident will increase $1 a month, or $12 a year if the referendum passes.)

He likes Crane

I agree with U.S. Rep. Philip Crane's aide that it is The Herald that is out of the mainstream (for this area) and not Crane, as shown by the electorate. Personally, I am thankful that I have the opportunity to vote for one of the few voices in Washington that resists the "runaway giveaway" to buy votes for reelection via transfer payments.

Would The Herald prefer that every elected official be in the "mainstream?" To me, that means think alike, act alike, buddy-buddyism, which most generally results in conflict-of-interest government and politics.

The majority of Chicago City Council members seem to be in the mainstream. Is this what The Herald intends using its public opinion power to achieve for us? I hope not.

"Amazing — the impact he has had on us all, eh?"

Cold weather continues to affect us as wholesale costs jump 0.9%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Winter's strain on natural gas and food supplies forced wholesale prices up 0.9 per cent in February, the largest increase in 16 months, the Labor Dept. reported Thursday.

The increase, reflecting a 10.8 per cent annual rate, meant American consumers will be suffering the economic legacy of a severe winter for many months to come. Wholesale price increases inevitably show up in retail markets later.

Not since October 1975, when prices leaped 1.2 per cent, have the nation's wholesale markets experienced so heavy a jolt.

FUEL, FOOD AND farm products — all in short supply because of the weather — led the February increase. Natural gas rose nearly 13 per cent in one month.

Crop damage contributed to jumps of 2.2 per cent in farm prices and 1.8 per cent for processed foods. Industrial prices rose 0.6 per cent, mostly due to a 3.3 per cent increase for fuels and power.

The Wholesale Price Index rose in February to 190, an increase of 6 per cent over the past year. That means goods costing $100 in 1967 now cost $190.

Natural gas prices led the February increase among fuels. Petroleum and electricity also rose sharply. Only coal showed no significant increase. Gas has risen nearly 50 per cent over the past year, electricity is up 10 per cent and crude petroleum more than 13 per cent.

INDUSTRIAL PRICES other than fuel rose 0.2 per cent. Lumber, rubber and plastic prices declined for the first time in many months.

Contributing to the heavy increase in farm prices were eggs, cotton, poultry, hogs, coffee, cocoa beans, tea, grains and vegetables. Cattle, beef and veal prices declined.

These trends were generally reflected in the March 1 Herald survey of prices in Northwest suburban supermarkets. For example, the average price of a 6-ounce can of frozen orange juice rose 6 cents and the average price of a single grapefruit jumped 8 cents during February.

However, most beef and pork prices declined or remained steady.

Banker fears high inflation in Carter economy

by LEA TONKIN

We're in for a period of higher inflation and eventually, a recession, Harris Bank economist Robert Genetski told a group of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg business executives Thursday.

Speaking to the Northwest Suburban Assn. of Commerce and Industry in Hoffman Estates, Genetski said the "unfortunate advice" supplied to President Carter's administration probably will lead to a mild recession in 1979. The administration's support for tax cuts and increased spending "is a fraud on the part of the government," based on "one dimensional, narrow minded" policies, he said.

Genetski, though, said economy should improve for the remainder of 1977. An 11 per cent increase in total United States sales, a moderate 5 to 6 per cent inflation rate, 15 to 20 per cent profit increases, and gains in employment will mark economy, Genetski said.

Starting in 1978, Genetski said, Carter policies will affect the inflation rate and other indicators of the nation's economic health. The Chicago economist speculated that the new administration's policies will be shaped by several characteristics.

CARTER'S ADMINISTRATION includes people who prefer active government intervention to improve the United States economy, Genetski said. They look for short term impact rather than long range planning and are inclined to redistribute incomes to low-income groups, he said.

Tax cut proposals won't make any difference to the American public if government spending continues to increase, Genetski said. "They're going to get us one way or another," he said.

Excessive borrowing by the federal government to finance the national debt will decrease money supply for housing and expansion of businesses, the economist said. Genetski said federally-financed jobs programs don't show jobs lost as a result of federal policies. Another alternative open to the government is "printing more money" to pay for new programs. "Eventually, you end up with a lot more inflation," Genetski said.

GENETSKI SAID policies favored by some Carter administration officials include the ban on right-to-work laws, increased minimum wage standards and possible mandatory insulation for all existing buildings.

Carter's policies probably will increase inflation to a 6 to 7 per cent rate by 1978, followed by a higher rate in 1979, Genetski said. He urged business executives to prepare for the rising costs by limiting long term commitments to deliver goods and services, unless a cost of living escalator is includtd in the price.

Price and profit controls are possible developments within the coming years, Genetski said. New product lines and mergers are tactics business executives might pursue if these controls are enforced, he said.

"The boom will end" by 1979, Genetski said. A mild recession in 1979 may be followed by more severe recession, he said. Getnetski said everything from the Arabs to the weather will be blamed for the nation's economic woes, but government officials should be held accountable.

"By the way Harry, you're fired. You know too much about me."

Afternoon rally boosts stocks; Dow up 3.83

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late afternoon rally, sparked by solid February retail sales, drove prices higher Thursday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

Early selling dried up quickly, indicating investors had anticipated the Labor Dept. would report wholesale prices rose 0.9 per cent at a 10.8 per cent annual rate in February.

Buying was sparked by the Commerce Department's report that retail sales rose 1.8 per cent in February, rebounding from a slide in January that was caused by the worst winter since 1918 in the East.

THE DOW JONES industrial average, off two points at the outset, rallied to gain 3.83 points to 946.73. It lost 9.14 points Wednesday in selling prompted by fears the Wholesale Price Index would be bad.

Buying became widespread as the NYSE common stock index rose 0.28 to 54.70 and the average price of a common share increased by 17 cents. Advances overtook declines, 799 to 582, among the 1,863 issues crossing the composite tape.

Big Board volume totaled 18,620,000 shares, down from the 19,680,000 traded Wednesday.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all exchanges at 3 p.m. totaled 21,087,460 shares, compared with 20,006,420 Wednesday.

Judge tells GM to tag Olds motors

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen ordered General Motors Corp. and all Illinois Oldsmobile dealers to inform customers in writing that the 1977 Oldsmobile "Delta 88" contains a Chevrolet engine. Cohen also directed General Motors to contact all previous Illinois purchasers and provide a duplicate list to Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. The temporary restraining order also forces the auto company to send a list to all Illinois Oldsmobile dealers identifying the kinds of engines placed in Oldsmobile cars.

During the hearing, Thomas A. Gottschalk, attorney for General Motors, said "The engine is perfectly comparable and not inferior to the Oldsmobile engine." Cohen said the public should know who manufactured the engine whether it is equivalent or not.

Chavez, Teamsters reach accord

The Teamsters Union and Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers Thursday signed an agreement ending a bitter, expensive and sometimes violent 10-year war for allegiance of farm workers in the West. Chavez and Western Teamsters leader M. E. Anderson signed the agreement, providing for areas of coverage for each union, as Teamsteers Pres. Frank E. Fitzsimmons looked on. The agreement generally provides that Chavez' AFL-CIO union will have jurisdiction over field workers. The Teamsters will retain jurisdiction over commercial packing sheds and off-farm transportation of crops. As current field worker contracts expire, most by the summer of 1978, the Teamsters will withdraw. However, the Teamsters will keep some, but not all, of field workers contracts they negotiated before 1970. The agreement, which includes 13 western states, is for five years and specifies that after two years "good faith negotiations for a national agreement will be undertaken."

Firm asks tests on salt, pepper

The head of a company that will be put out of business by a proposed ban on saccharin said Thursday he is asking a laboratory to conduct cancer-link tests on salt, pepper and sugar. Benjamin Eisenstadt, president of the company that manufactures sugar substitute Sweet n' Low, said in New York he had commissioned a laboratory to conduct the tests to find out whether the everyday condiments could cause cancer in rats. "In the case of pepper, I am told there's a fairly good prospect that used in sufficiently enormous amounts it will cause cancer in rats," he said. "If this turns out to be true, I will demand that the FDA ban pepper." The Food and Drug Administration Wednesday said it would ban saccharin use in four months because Canadian tests had shown that some rats fed large amounts of saccharin had developed cancer. Meanwhile, an expert in the field of artificial sweeteners said he was astonished that the FDA had banned saccharin. "Saccharin is absolutely safe for man," said Dr. Fred Coulston, director of the Institute of Comperatives and Human Toxicology at Albany Medical College.

Congress to get NOW account bill

Federal Reserve chairman Arthur Burns said Thursday the Congress will be asked soon to enact legislation allowing all Americans to collect interest on money deposited in bank checking accounts. Burns discussed the impending legislation in a report to the Senate Banking Committee on the condition of the nation's banking system. He said the banks are "on an improving trend." Burns said legislation is being prepared that would allow all banks to establish interest-bearing accounts, or NOW accounts. The acronym stands for negotiated order of withdrawal.

Banks stronger: FDIC official

The U.S. banking industry is in "reasonably sound shape" and getting stronger although the number of problem banks remains close to its highest level in three decades, said the head of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. FDIC Chairman Robert E. Barnett said the banks in various problem categories stand at 384 compared with a 1976 peak of 385, the highest number since 1948.

Medicare payment charge denied

A man who provides home health care and homemaker services in California and Illinois denies charges he owes the government $804,655 for Medicare overpayments. Peter Gottheiner, in testimony Wednesday before a joint Senate and House panel, said the government owes him "in excess of $200,000." He said a government claim against him was dropped and the money never was repaid. A Senate investigative memorandum entered into the hearing record said Medicare still says Gottheiner owes the program $804,655 "in unresolved audit exceptions." The memorandum said Gottheiner was suspended from Medicaid in California, owes money to Medicare, "and he continues to operate receiving public funds now under Title XX of the Social Security Act," which provides subsidies for social welfare services. Gottheiner said his firms were never "kicked out" of Medicaid in California.

Coffee production down 16%

World coffee production this year will be about 62.2 million bags, down 16 per cent from last year, the Agriculture Dept. said Thursday. Department analysts said the drop in "exportable production" was even greater. The analysts said the cost of green coffee imports in 1976 rose to $2.63 billion, an increase of more than $1 billion from the $1.56 billion that flowed out to coffee-growing nations in 1975. In the production report, officials said exportable supplies for the current season are estimated at 45.3 million bales, down 10.1 million bags from 1975-76.

Harper board votes 4 to 3

Student trustee gets limited vote

Limited voting power for the student member of the Harper College Board was approved Thursday night by college trustees.

The board voted 4 to 3 to grant the student trustee an advisory vote, which will be recorded in all board actions beginning with the April 14 meetings but will not count in board decisions.

The purpose of the advisory vote, Student Senate Pres. Paul Scott told the board, is to "provide students with some degree of accountability from the student trustee."

THE VOTE WILL be recorded in the minutes and serve as a record of the student trustee's position. The current student trustee is Robin Turpin.

Voting against the proposal were William Kelly, Jessalyn Nicklas and Judith Troehler.

Kelly said he believes the advisory vote "apparently has something to do with enlarging the vote at a later time. I see it as a useless action."

"This thought of an underlying motive is not the case. I don't think full voting privileges ever would have much chance," Scott replied.

The board action makes Harper the second community college in the state to allow a student advisory vote. The other is John Wood Community College in Quincy.

HARPER COLLEGE Pres. Robert Lahti told Scott it is important for the student trustee to "keep the total college in perspective." He suggested the board get legal advice on procedure of the advisory vote.

Trustee Robert Moats suggested that the advisory vote follow the official board voting.

Explaining her opposition trustee Nicklas said, "I don't feel there has been any attempt to prevent discussion of the student point of view."

Troehler attempted to amend the proposal so that the student advisory vote not be allowed in cases that dealt with the student body. The amendment died for lack of a second.

She's got great legs, but no more job

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (UPI)—Vicki Stevens lost her job as a high school speech and drama teacher for showing off her legs in a hotpants contest at a bar.

Ms. Stevens, 24, won $50 in the contest for having the most attractive legs, but when she arrived at school Monday a resignation form was waiting for her.

Ms. Stevens, who has taught at West Plains High School since the fall of 1975, entered the contest because she had lost a lot of pay due to illness.

"Rather than cause a lot of problems for the principal, whom I like very much, I just signed the resignation," she said.

Ms. Stevens said she wore "cutoffs and a summer blouse and sandals. No body talked me into it. I volunteered."

"I'm going out smiling, at least," she said. "I understand their position. They're (school officials) getting so much pressure."

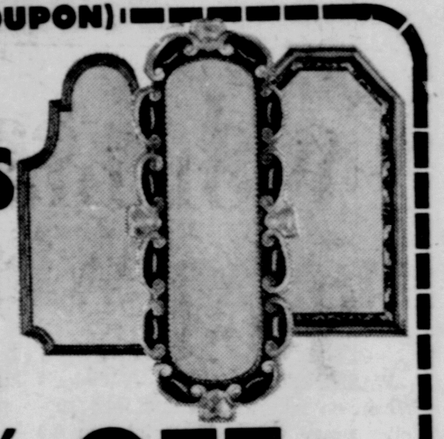

Ms. Stevens said she plans to move to eastern Tennessee.

"I think West Plains' school system is fine," she said. "But the town itself is so limited in activities for a young, single teacher."

Wolfman tired of being 'just a pretty voice'

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The usual fire in Wolfman Jack's eyes was smoldering and he talked as if he'd picked up a cold. But in that one-of-a-kind, always sore-throatish voice of his, who would know for sure?

Except, he didn't howl once — not until he entered the employes' party for Chicago Marriott's new Discodeck (formerly the Windjammer) sandwiched between the grand opening celebration and the press gala occurring earlier this week.

It's the Wolfman Jack in person.

Photos by Jim Frost

And so if Wolfman was a few minutes late to the interview, it was because he was several hours short on sleep.

RANDY, HIS BUSINESS manager, thanked me for coming. That was a nice gesture. Usually the shoe is on the other foot.

Next door you could hear the blow dryer going. It stopped and Wolfman entered — looking more like the Bob Smith he was born, than the crazy disc jockey he'd become. But that all changed very quickly.

"Yeh, it was gangbusters around here," he boomed about the after-party in his room that had continued all night. It wouldn't be like Wolfman to ignore all his Chicago cronies, WLS's Bob Sirott and the whole crew, even if here for only a day.

"I'M THE LAST OF the big boppers," he joked about his Rock N' Roll longevity from the '50s, through the '60s and into the '70s — bigger and stronger than ever before.

"That's because I'm supernatural. I never throw out full power — I operate half-fast all my life."

Though WFYR in Chicago recently cancelled Wolfman's syndicated Rock N' Roll show on Friday nights, primarily due to an alteration in its "oldies but goodies" format, there are still some 2,000 other radio stations located around the world that do carry the Wolfman.

And that doesn't include the spot commercial interruptions when he fights pimples for Clearasil or his weekly engagements with Helen Reddy on the "Midnight Special."

WOLFMAN'S COME A long way since the powerful voltage of a Del Rio, Tex., radio station sent his raspy voice into the middle of the night to boggle the minds and ears of thousands of listeners.

At the purported age of 37, Wolfman is assured continuing popularity by many public appearances enhanced by the resurgence of discotheques.

The Puppets, a Chicago dance team, was discovered by Wolfman.

Only, would you believe that Wolfman — he admits he first considered Birdman Burney or Goatman Irving — is "tired of being just a pretty voice?"

He played himself in "American Graffiti." And that was O.K. But while he's been considered for character roles, the verdict is always the same: "I'm too well known as Wolfman Jack."

"BUT I'M GOING TO overcome that disc jockey label," said Wolfman. "They've forgotten that the Wolfman can sing, dance and play the piano."

And he does all three in his new, syndicated, weekly, half-hour variety show, "The Wolfman Jack Show." It is already being televised in Canada and Japan and is soon to be picked up in other countries.

Hopefully, next fall it will be televised in the U. S. since ABC has shown some interest, according to Randy.

Wolfman was waking up — making faces at the photographer, sweet-talking all the ladies.

It was time to go downstairs to the party and Wolfman received last-minute instructions.

"Really psych them up, Wolfman. Remember, none of them have been drinking."

"If you want to party tonight, say Hallelujah! The vibrations coming here from this here room are overwhelming." Wolfman Jack was into his groove.

THE DANCE CONTEST began and the only downtrodden soul was a young lady who chanced to meet in the lobby of the hotel another visiting celebrity, Tom Jones. She asked him to be her dancing partner.

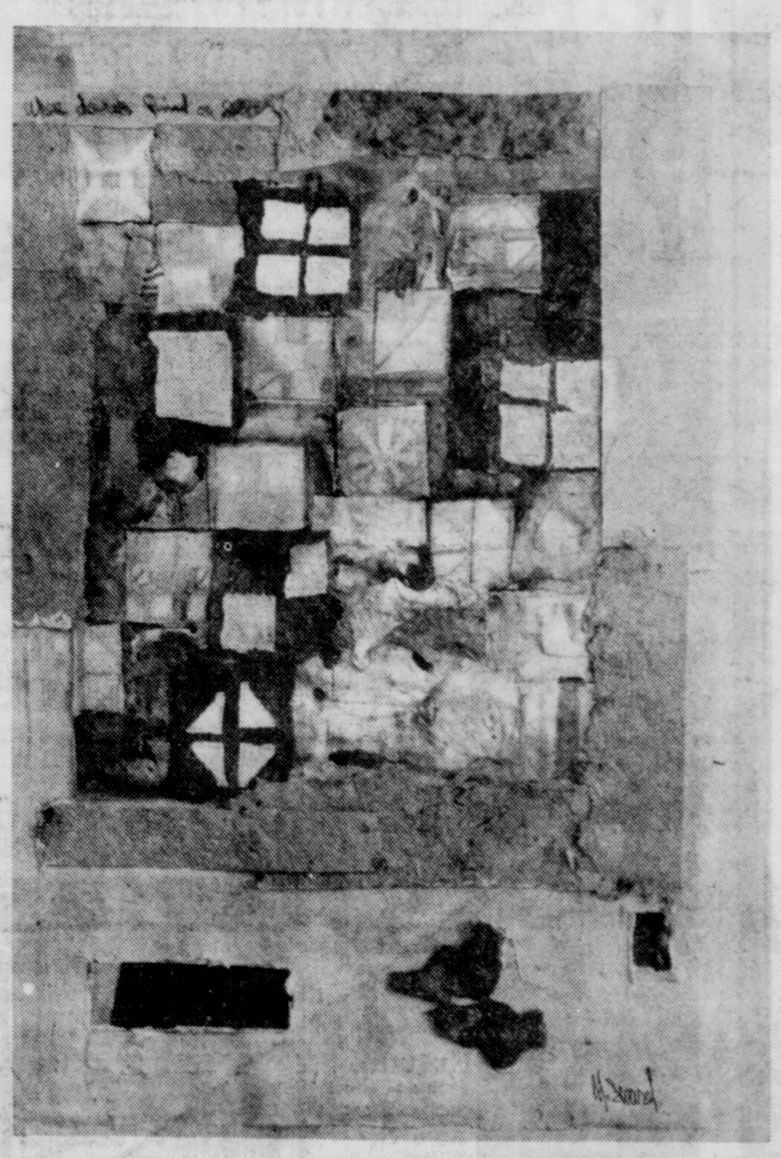

"He said he'd come," she told her friends in the ladies lounge, but he didn't.

Tom Jones and Wolfman Jack? Now, that would have been some combination.

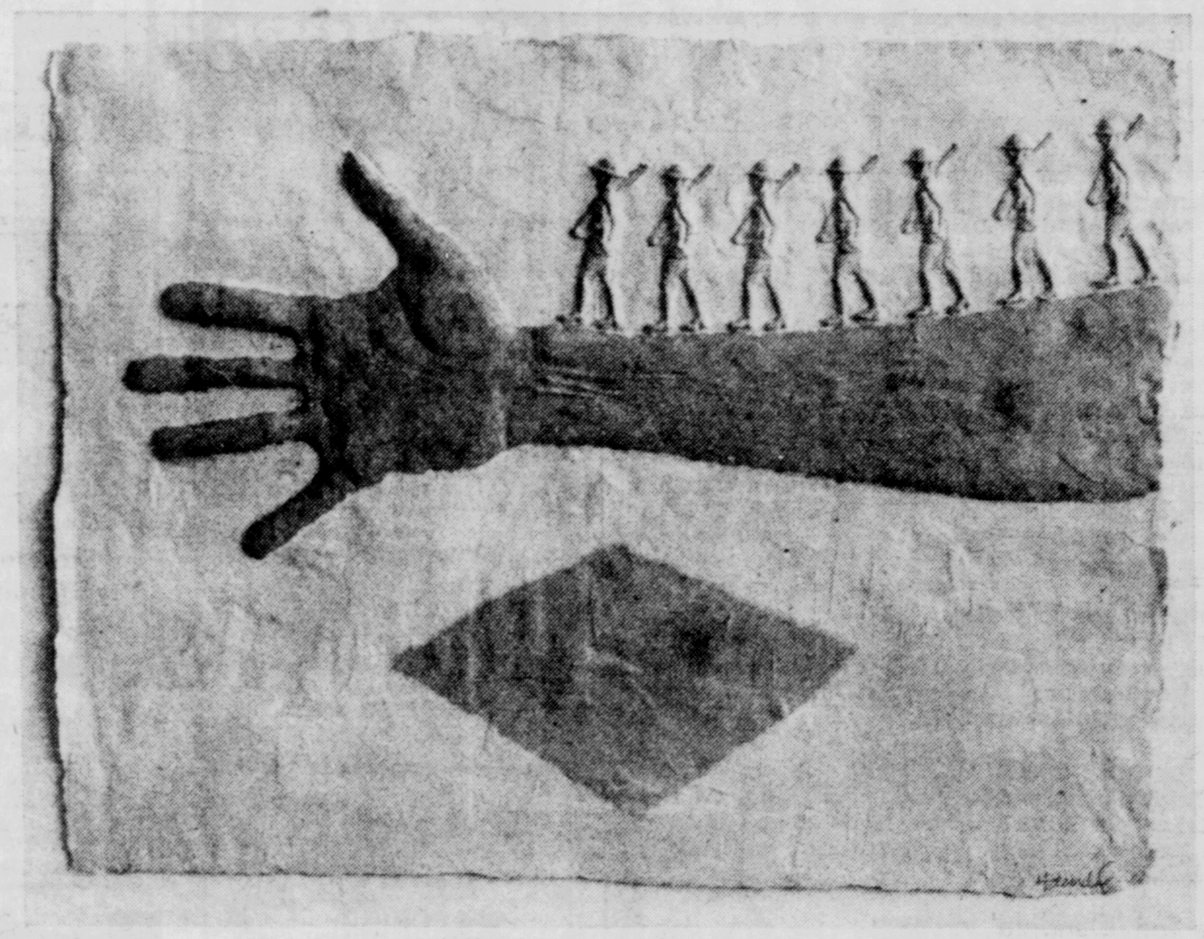

Wolfman — "She's lookin' good."

Handmade paper focus of show

"Cover Forms" by Marilyn Sward

"Gulliver," inlaid paper by William Haendel

Paper. We use it every day. Crumple it up and throw it away. It's painted on, drawn on, used as a base to build on, but seldom featured as a medium itself.

That's why the "Paper Show" currently at Countryside Art Center through April 8 is one of the more unusual and significant exhibits to be shown in the Arlington Heights gallery, 408 N. Vail.

Featuring handmade paper art, the show encompasses the work of Allan Shields, Clinton Hill and Sam Gilliam, along with one striking piece by Frank Stella on loan from the Richard Gray Gallery in Chicago.

Also exhibiting are Bill Haendel, professor of art at Northern Illinois University; Laurie Stone of Chicago, who incorporates music boxes into paper sculpture; and Marilyn Sward of Evanston.

Color is secondary to texture and design and the medium itself if the focal point of the entire show.

THE PROCESS OF making paper is a painstaking one. And though professional equipment is now available to speed up the process, the procedure dates back to colonial days when shredded rags were left outside, immersed in water until they rotted to form a pulp.

This pulp is beaten to shorten the length of the fiber and threads until they are uniform in length. A mold or screen is dipped into the pulp directly below the surface and immediately lifted out to keep excess water from collecting, according to Bill Haendel. The newly formed sheet is then pressed to remove remaining moisture.

Marilyn Sward, a schooled painter, began experimenting with a mixed media about a year ago in an attempt to discover "a different image" for her artwork, stylized by an interest in patterns, shapes and figures removed from their functional base or object.

MANY OF THE collages incorporate simple geometrics often taken from antique quilts or book illustrations.

"I also write a lot of poetry. I incorporate that too," said Sward.

Though she has since graduated to more complicated processes, Sward investigated the medium by first learning to recycle paper in a blender.

Though handmade paper has always been preferred for delicate watercolors and prints, artists are becoming increasingly interested in treating it as a medium itself. And according to a spokesman at Richard Gray Gallery in Chicago, people are responding positively.

'Bound for Glory'

Guthrie story artful period film

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Staunch followers of Woody Guthrie who expect to see a full-fledged biography of the late, wandering minstrel in "Bound for Glory" might be disappointed. But if they are, they shouldn't be, because director Hal Ashby is offering something even better.

Although the film takes in only a short segment of Guthrie's life — the budding years of his song writing-singing career — his intense, yet plain-folk character is deeply ingrained throughout the film.

"Bound for Glory" received a handful of Academy Award nominations for much more than catching Guthrie's selfless, free spirit.

SET IN THE MIDDLE 1930s, the movie depicts most accurately without seeming maudlin the miseries and downheartedness of the Depression's victims who moved from all parts of the country to seek a better life in California.

Instead, they found overcrowded farm labor camps bossed by abusive, demanding fruit growers who paid only pennies a day in wages. Still, the people clung to one another for support. They never lost their pride.

The uplifting message is enhanced by Haskell Wexler's gossamer cinematography aided by period sets by Michael Haller. The photography is so beautiful, in fact, that the gingerly pace of the film, which would drag other movies right down, hardly detracts at all.

Extremely effective is the simulation of a huge dust storm that envelopes an entire Texas town, created through special effects by Albert Whitlock. It has a far more realistic impact than anything invented of late for so-called disaster films.

GUTHRIE, AS sensitively portrayed by David Carradine, is a good-natured, yet stubborn idealist whose restlessness and disillusionment finally drives him to temporarily abandon his family to join the other penniless migrants headed for California.

Much of the film traces his perseverance and chance, memorable acquaintance with the hobos and misplaced families he meets while hitching either by rail or road. Depicted is a kindred spirit that I'm not sure even exists today.

Shocked by the exploitation of the migrants, Guthrie joins forces with a local radio entertainer, Ozark Buell (Ronny Cox), who comes out to the fields to sing and talk unionization.

IT'S BUELL WHO first recognizes Guthrie's talent and helps him land a radio spot of his own. But when money and fame are his for the grabbing, Guthrie rebels. Conformity is too high a price to pay.

An excellent supporting cast includes Melinda Dillon, Guthrie's wife Mary; former Chicagoan Gail Strickland, a symbol of the rich who care; and Cox himself, who is an unexpected standout.

Carradine does all his own singing and guitar work, and many of Guthrie's more ceebrated songs out of the more than 1,000 he composed are woven into the second half of the film. Songs like "Union Maid" and "This Land Is Your Land."

Perhaps it's even more in keeping with the folksinging hero's image to end the movie as Guthrie shucks the commercial stigma of California and heads for New York.

Guthrie died at the age of 55 in 1967 of Huntington's Disease after a long and trying illness.

AS A POSTSCRIPT to the film, I'm sure a lot of people are wondering why Arlo is not included. It's because he wasn't born yet. Arlo is the offspring of Guthrie and his second wife, Marjorie, whom Guthrie met after arriving in New York. Guthrie and his first wife, Mary, had two daughters.

"Bound for Glory," rated (PG), is an absorbing, beautiful movie that dishes up a cut of life itself. Too bad we can't have more like it.

IN "BOUND FOR GLORY" Woody Guthrie (David Carradine) and Ozark Buell (Ronny Cox) sing their protest songs to underpaid fruit pickers. The new United Artists release received five Academy Award nominations.

Attention, music buffs

Discovering good music isn't easy to do today. With price hikes in both record albums and tapes, who can afford to experiment?

That's why beginning next Friday, The Herald is introducing a weekly music column, "DISCovering," to guide readers to the kind of music they can be assured of enjoying.

Classical music will be highlighted once a month when staff writer Bill Gowen reviews classical recordings including orchestral music, symphonies, solo instrumental, choral and operatic works. The column will be consumer-oriented with the minimum of technical discussion in order to serve a wide audience.

The Herald's feature services will also provide information in "DISCovering" jazz, pop, rock, folk and country; and will entertain readers with human interest stories about their favorite recording stars and groups.

"DISCovering" debuts next Friday in Medley.

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

"Pink Panther Strikes Again" — Peter Sellers is better than ever in Blake Edwards' fourth outing for the Pink Panther, this time pitting the inspiredly bumbling Inspector Clouseau against his deranged former superior (Herbert Lom) and a dozen international assassins. Slapstick pratfalls and consistent silliness are again the order of the day. (PG).

"Car Wash" — Roughly two dozen wigged-out characters inhabiting a Los Angeles car wash operation are craftily intertwined in a non-stop barrage of comedy skits, recurrent gags and soundtrack rock numbers. (PG).

"Fun With Dick and Jane" — Comedy spoof about an aerospace industry executive and his wife who find their affluent American Dream evaporate when he is suddenly unemployed. Crime becomes their only available ploy to avoid welfare and continue in their accustomed lifestyle. Stars George Segal and Jane Fonda. (PG).

"Cassandra Crossing" — An outbreak of a man-made plague is discovered on a highjacked European passenger train, necessitating the sealing of the train and rerouting it across a rickety, dangerous bridge, in order to keep the germ from spreading. Stars Sophia Loren, Richard Harris, Martin Sheen and Ava Gardner, Burt Lancaster and O. J. Simpson. (R).

"Enforcer" — Cnint Eastwood is back as Harry Calahan, the rogue who takes the law into his own violent hands. Pretty bloody. (R).

"Freaky Friday" — A teenage girl whose fondest wish is to change places with her mother, unexpectedly finds her wish granted in this latest Walt Disney release. Stars Jodie Foster, Barbara Harris, Patsy Kelly, Kaye Ballard and Ruth Buzzi. (G).

"Rocky" — Sylvester Stallone wrote the script and stars as the title character in this small, unpretentious and genuinely involving story of a local clubhouse prizefighter who gets a chance-of-a-lifetime shot at the world heavyweight title and finds love and self-respect along the way. (PG).

"Silver Streak" — A comedy adventure set principally on a luxury train en route from Los Angeles to Chicago. Hostages are held aboard the train by racketeers engaged in an international art hoax. Stars Gene Wilder, Jill Clayburgh, Richard Pryor, Patrick McGoohan and Scatman Crothers. (PG).

"Network" — The quartet of award-caliber performances by Peter Finch, Faye Dunaway, Robert Duvall and William Holden is a whopping show in itself in this biting look at a television network, the cut throat tactics rampant behind-the-scenes and the questionable message delivered by the medium to its viewers. (R).

Seafood switch perks menu

Santino's, at Route 22 and Milwaukee Avenue, Lincolnshire, is switching from a traditional Italian menu to a continental featuring fish and seafood, and the change seems to be in the right direction.

Sixteen seafood entrees highlight the menu which made its debut last week. The seven-page bill of fare also includes a broad selection of American and continental specialties, children's portions and late-night suggestions.

A billboard outside the restaurant announcing a steak and lobster special for $7.95 catches your attention as you drive up. We enjoyed the combination, which features good-sized portions with a baked potato, but look beyond the billboard to find the more exciting dishes.

Featuring:

Santino's

THE DANISH DAINTIE lobsters de jonghe, $9.25, was excellent. Baked in a casserole, it was deliciously seasoned and the lobster was firm and tender.

Another original seafood we enjoyed was baked fresh Idaho golden trout with shrimp sauce, $6.50. The trout was stuffed with crabmeat, fresh mushrooms, shallots, cornbread and herbs. Although the stuffing was heavy on the breading, the fish was fresh and tasty.

The move away from Italian food seems to be a good one, if judged by our sampling of the rolled beef braciole, $6.95. The thin slices of sirloin stuffed with Romano cheese, bits of bacon and seasonings were dry despite the liberal helping of tomato sauce.

For an appetizer we chose baked clams, six for $2.50. They were fresh and well-seasoned; we could have easily finished more.

SOUP COMES WITH dinner except for the rolled beef braciole, which includes a side order of mostaccioli. A chunky chowder was adequately filled with chopped fish, clams, carrots, celery, tomatoes, parsley and potatoes. And the tangy tomato-onion soup was rich and creamy, one of the highlights of our dinner.

Bill o' fare

The restaurant is replacing its salad bar, which also comes with dinner, with four choices of salad. We were told this is being done to provide better service, and judging by the lengthy lines we saw at the salad bar between 7 and 8 p.m. that Saturday, we agree.

Santino's is a coffee lover's dream. Besides a selection of terrific after-dinner coffees — Ponchino with its blend of seven liqueurs was the best — the dessert list includes coffee ice cream or sherbet and an enticing Coupe Glace au Fraise: coffee ice cream, strawberries and Grand Marnier, $2.50.

THE RESTAURANT IS comfortable, with wrought iron partitions separating the booths and individual tables circling an artificial tree in the center of the dining room. Service is well-paced but reservations are recommended, especially on weekends.

The friendliness at Santino's is exhibited by the courtesies extended at the end of your meal. A complimentary dish of soft vanilla ice cream is offered and one of the owners — for us it was Joe Di Vito — stops at your table to encourage you to try some anisette in your coffee. It is a warm touch to a pleasant evening.

'Room Service' typical of good old slapstick

Genie Campbell

Night out

With slick, sophisticated comedies in abundance, it's easy to forget what an old-time farce, generously sprinkled with slapstick, is all about.

Consequently, I'm afraid many people will come away disappointed from "Room Service" now at Arlington Park Theatre, because they just won't be expecting the vaudeville-inspired satire and wit.

Granted the John Murray comedy is definitely showing its age. It was first produced in 1937 and has been revived several times since then. Two movie versions have also been made, one starring the Marx Brothers.

NATURALLY THE play is filled with cliches and stale dialog that would bore you to death unless you concentrate on how it is said, rather than what is said. This is the secret to enjoying the show. Discover it, and you're definitely in for some offbeat, ludicrous fun.

Comedy farces are a dying art. Equally unusual is the fact that Arlington Park Theatre has amassed a cast of 14 for "Room Service." It's difficult to afford anymore.

Alan Sues

Ron Palillo, Sweathog Arnold Horshack on TV's "Welcome Back Kotter," has been the biggest drawing card in this production.

He plays a wet-behind-the-ears, young playwright, Leo Davis, who gets pushed around all the time — much the same kind of role he plays in the television series.

Palillo does a good job, but more impressive is the natural finesse of Shelley Berman who behaves on stage like the veteran pro he is, and Alan Sues who contrasts Berman's straight-man role with continuous tomfoolery.

THE THREE — Berman, Sues and Palillo — work well together. Timing is everything and Berman is the clock, expertly pacing the show and feeding the cues.

He plays Gordon Miller, a penniless, scheming theater producer whose idea of a quick exit is putting on all the clothes he owns so no one sees him leaving with a suitcase. Sues is his eccentric director who can't think with his clothes on.

Also featured are Ray Lonergan and Douglas Mellor as hotel managers seduced by Gordon's schemes.

Unfortunately, there was only a small house the night I saw "Room Service" the beginning of this week. I hope it picks up or we'll never get a breather from the usual, slick, superficial comedies.

'Peter Pan' staged for deaf

The Children's Theater of the Deaf from the Center on Deafness will present its premiere performance of the children's classic, "Peter Pan," March 27 at 3 p.m. at Niles North High School, Skokie.

The group is comprised of 20 hearing impaired children ages 8-16 and 7 hearing children ages 7-13. The hearing impaired are the actors on stage and communicate their roles through sign language, while the hearing children become the voice for each character.

Tickets for this performance are $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for children. Those interested may write the Center on Deafness, 600 Waukegan Rd., Glenview, Ill., 60025, or phone 729-5620. Deaf people may call the Center by TTY at 729-5620.

Bank hangs Art Guild paintings

The second free exhibit of Des Plaines Art Guild paintings may be viewed in the Convenience Center of the First National Bank of Des Plaines, 760 Lee St. The Center is open Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday 10 to 8; and Saturday, 10 to 2.

The paintings, chosen by a blue-ribbon jury of art guild members, are part of a continuing showing of local artists' work. Thelma Spain and Maria Ryndak, both of Des Plaines, were members of the jury.

Why we put ten people at tables designed for twelve.

A knowledgeable caterer knows that little details can make a big difference in the success of a meeting, banquet or party.

And that's why we consider a table's eating space. Not just seating space. And why, for certain meetings, provide shaved ice in the water pitchers, instead of ice cubes. To cut down on distracting noise.

It's a certain kind of thoughtfulness that makes a big difference.

And we offer it right along with the availability of gourmet foods. Indoor, out-of-the-weather parking for up to 1,100 cars. A variety of meeting rooms for groups as small as 10, as large as 1,850. Besides the prestige, location, and luxurious accommodations of the Hyatt Regency.

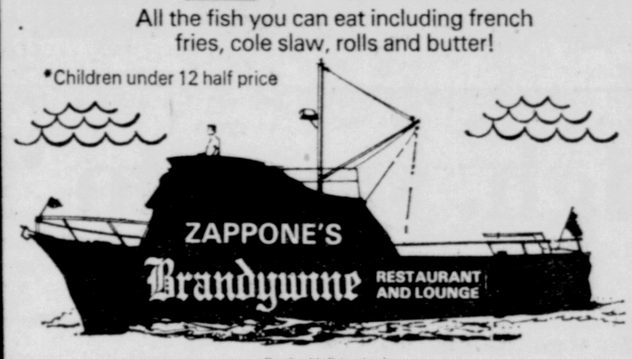

So instead of trying to remember hundreds of details for your next affair, just remember one. Our phone number. (312) 565-1000.

Sigh, yawn to 'Don Juan'

by SCOTT FOSDICK

When George Bernard Shaw put Don Juan in hell, the result was a satirical fantasy that threw Britain for a loop.

But when the Friends of the Schaumburg Township Library brought Don Juan to the suburbs, the upshot was something else entirely.

You would be well-advised to take along a snifter of cognac and a pipeful of your mustiest tobacco to carry you through the Friends' reading of "Don Juan in Hell." This heady dialogue will absorb all the brooding speculation you care to give it.

Shaw's play resembles many of Plato's dialogues in its defense of the philosophic man. In place of Socrates and some hapless Athenian, however, Shaw features legendary rake Don Juan up against the Devil himself.

THE TWO WANDER through the lower regions, boring each other with long speeches about passion and duty.

Review

Don Juan calls hell "a perpetual romance," with its constant adoration of physical pleasure. In contrast to his image on earth as an immoral womanizer, Don Juan lectures the Devil on the virtues of honest reality. In doing so he satirizes man's hypocritical confusion of social convention with true morality.

All the players in this production have remarkable vocal range, but Charles Golliher is especially convincing as the Devil.

Like a travel agent working on commission, he urbanely praises hell as a place where beauty and love are enjoyed without shame. If Satan were in reality half so charming as this, the world would have packed its bags for Hades long ago.

WHEN HE ISN'T speaking, the Devic punctuates Don Juan's diatribes with cerebral sighs and yawns. Much of the humor of the play comes from the characters' obvious boredom with each other's arguments. But the trick in portraying boredom is to do it without boring the audience, and the Friends don't always succeed.

There's no getting away from it: Despite the ample talents of the actors, the play drags horribly. To today's cynical audiences, Shaw's dry dissection of Man's passion seems rather smug and is far from shocking.

So "Don Juan" comes to the suburbs like a beached whale. As a former great work, it demands respect, but like most satire, it dies quickly. As a result, the current production brings new meaning to the phrase "boring as hell."

Two theater groups slate tryouts for spring shows

Two area theater companies are setting audition dates for spring productions.

The Players of Schaumburg hold open auditions Sunday, March 20, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Schaumburg Library for two melodramas to be presented in May. The first is a one-hour version of "No, No, A Million times No, or Only a Farmer's Daughter" with leading roles for eight females and four males.

ACTOR-SINGERS may provide their own music for the auditions and will be required to demonstrate their ability to execute simple jazz and square dance steps. A pianist will also be interviewed for the show.

The second melodrama, a half-hour musical version of "Curse You, Jack Dalton" has leading roles for four females and three males.

Back stage workers are also needed. Information, 885-2360 after 4 p.m.

MUSIC ON STAGE will hold tryouts for its June production of "Finian's Rainbow" March 21 and 22 at Birchwood Park, Palatine.

The major characters will first be discussed at a MOS meeting next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Sanborn School cafeteria, Palatine. Guests are welcome.

Further MOS information is available at 991-0333.

'Godspell' available for private booking

Pentangle Productions is making its upcoming musical play, "Godspell," available to churches, clubs, organizations and hospitals for private performances at a nominal fee.

The musical based on the Gospel according to Saint Matthew opens at Pentangle's Limelight Theatre March 25 and runs four weekends through Easter.

Private booking dates and other details may be obtained by calling the producer, Ken Freehill, at 884-0137 after 6:30 p.m.

'Pied Piper' in Midwest premiere

The Players of Schaumburg will celebrate the fifth anniversary of the Young People's Theatre Series with a special Midwest premiere production of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin."

The show will be staged March 26 and 27 and April 2 and 3 at Schaumburg Township Library.

Originated in 1973 by Players resident director Sonja Leraas, Schaumburg, the Series provides live theatrical entertainment for young people and their families. Previous productions included puppet and magic shows, improvisational theater, musicals and original adaptations of children's stories.

"THE PIED PIPER" is the 14th show in the Young People's Series, the first to be staged in-the-round. Written by Madge Miller, it features original scenes and musical material by Ms. Leraas and choreography by Geni Lucchesi, Des Plaines. Production assistant is Judy Ashley, Schaumburg; set construction handled by Monti Leraas, Schaumburg. The 14th original medieval costumes will be designed and made under supervision of Margaret Downham, Palatine, Colleen Kelly, Hoffman Estates, and Ms. Ashley.

Appearing in leading roles are professionals Pat Molohan, Palatine, as the Mayor of Hamelin and Margaret Downham as the Pied Piper. Additional cast members will be selected from recent graduates of The Players' adult and children's acting and dance workshops.

Tickets at the door will be $2.25; those reserved or purchased in advance are $1.75. A box office is open at the Library Thursdays, 7-10 p.m.; reservations can be made by calling 885-2360 weekdays after 4 p.m. Group rates for 10 or more are $1.50 and special arrangements, including a cake, are available for birthday parties.

Good parent lets kids make decisions

by ELEANOR RIVES

The most important thing parents can do to realistically prepare their children for adulthood in the world of the future is to teach them to make their own decisions and to be responsible for the decisions they have made.

That was the message the Rev. Jack Martin, founder and director of the Family Life Center for the Diocese of Tucson, Ariz., drove home to approximately 200 Northwest suburban women, almost all of them mothers, who flocked to hear him Tuesday morning at St. Edna's parish center in Arlington Heights.

It was the third in a series of six sessions dealing with psychology and theology and designed to help all women cope with the challenges of a changing world. The series is presented by Theology West, an autonomous committee formed three years ago and consisting of 17 laywomen and nuns from various Catholic churches in the Northwest suburban area.

PARENTING IS a serious business. Listeners and speaker were in agreement on that.

"How do you prepare today's children to become the responsible young parents of 1990 or 2000?" asked Father Martin. "We don't know what that world will be. Our concern is 'What can we do now?' "

He asked the women to search themselves and determine what parenting attitudes they have acquired in their own lives. These attitudes may determine if a family is a troubled family, at one end of the spectrum, or a nutrient family, at the other.

"Your family probably lies somewhere between the two," he said. "Try to locate it. Then decide what changes are needed to make it a nutrient family."

He listed the following basic attitudes as causing a troubled family:

- Man is evil; control him (resulting in super-control over children).
- Relationships need control by force (pulling rank — "I am your mother — do it NOW!")
- There is only one right way and the person with the power knows it. (Someone else knows what's best for you — ME!)
- Self-esteem is secondary to power and performance. (It doesn't matter how the child feels about it.)
- Actions are subject to the whim of the boss (inconsistency — child starts playing Mommy against Daddy).

"We learn our behavior patterns in moments of anxiety from the parent of the same sex," said Father Martin. "About 85 per cent of us take on the personality of that parent. Your job as a parent is to model your values — that's all you can do. You cannot force your child — or anybody — to take on your value system."

He described the old school of parenting — the highly authoritarian system in which parents have a strong picture of what their children ought to be. It is in this type of family that the teenager breaks away from the next with a bang — drugs, pregnancy — a dramatic announcement of leaving. He is likely to choose the strongest rules as the ones to shelve.

"THESE KIDS won't talk to their parents — they know they will get the same old sermons," he said. "One of the hardest tasks of being a parent today is keeping the lines of communication open."

Father Martin then focused attention on the nutrient family, the one that recognizes the child as a person. This type family gives its children a feeling of self-worth, never sets brothers and sisters in competition with each other. It helps the child discover his strength, never emphasizes his weaknesses.

"Thirty-five per cent of the jobs today's kids will have in 1985 haven't yet been invented. Your kids will have to make decisions, they will need confidence and a strong sense of self-worth," he said.

IN THE NUTRIENT family, parents are not reluctant to say "I'm sorry" — acts of reconciliation are essential to the child's growth process. Parents make time for their children, reach out, talk to them, touch them and let them touch back. And by refusing to "bail their children out" — to play rescuer — they teach them to assume responsibility for their own actions.

"Give children choices," he admonished. "Start young. Children can make choices at 3."

In the nutrient family, change is considered normal, even desirable. The family rules are updated from time to time. And the lines of communication are kept open so that even if the child does not always say what the parent wants to hear, it can be discussed.

"MEALTIME IS a very important time of family living," said Father Martin. "In a family of five, 40 relationships are being acted out at the dinner table. Sometime slip a tape recorder under the table. Did the family members leave the table with a sense of self-esteem or a feeling of pain?"

According to Father Martin, the greatest gift that parents can give their children is to let them see how a loving relationship between two adults can grow.

"Being parents is a gentle blending," he said. "When children see you working together, they don't try to split you apart."

The doctor says

Reader benefited by bran treatment

Each time I read an article on the bran treatment for diverticulosis I applaud heartily, for it has made a new life for me. In May 1975 I was having constant pain and had reached the point where I was about to climb the walls. The doctor found I had diverticulosis. My X rays showed those pockets of the colon. He put me on a bran diet and it certainly has worked for me. All Bran and Bran Buds work better for me. Morning and evening.

The doctor cautioned me about two enemies of diverticulosis patients, spices and fats. It is true in my case. You might tell your readers who are on a bran diet and have occasional flare-ups and pain that they should avoid fats and spices.

I eat anything else I want, tossed salads, mmmmmm! I had been without them for so long. However, I have to be very careful of the dressings I use on them. Others may not respond as I have, but I thought you might be interested to know of one other who responded well to the treatment.

Bowel disorders are among the most common problems in our population. Diverticulosis, those little pockets of the colon occur in more than half of the people over 50 years of age. There is a good deal of evidence that the pockets develop because of a spastic colon problem which in turn is often related to a diet poor in bulk, specifically cereal fiber.

I am sending you two issues of The Health Letter on these problems, number 2-1, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation, and 5-6, Diverticulosis. Good bowel habits help to prevent Diverticulosis. And often the pain attributed to diverticulosis is really caused by the spasms in an irritable colon. Both can be benefitted by a sensible bowel program that provides cereal fiber in the diet and avoids harmful laxatives.

There is more to managing colon problems than just eating bran as you have suggested. Others who want the information in the two Health Letters can send 50 cents for either or each issue with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Just write to me in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019. Bowel training that takes advantage of natural reflexes is helpful.

YOU GET GOOD results from All-Bran and Bran Buds because both of these contain reasonable amounts of bran. A cup of these a day along with whole wheat bread (not half whole wheat flour and half white flour or bread colored to look like whole wheat bread) will usually provide adequate amounts of cereal fiber for most people.

If you prefer Bran Flakes or Raisin Bran, you will need two teacups of either a day to provide a similar amount of cereal fiber.

Vegetable fiber and fruit fiber are found in raw fruits and vegetables, including those salads you like so much. But vegetable or fruit fiber is not nearly as effective as cereal fiber in providing needed bulk for the colon.

Fats and spices are hard on the colon — whether or not you have diverticulosis. Coffee, particularly natural coffee, but also decaffeinated brands may be irritating to the colon of some sensitive people. The flavor oils as well as the caffeine may be too much for an irritable colon. I am delighted you have done so well, and hope millions more will be able to move from a bland tasteless diet to one that not only tastes better but is better for them.

Letting down sleeve left obvious mark

Dear Dorothy: Can you help me with a problem I'm having with a coat? The sleeves were too short so I let them down — and the end of the sleeve is now very visible. Is there any way to get rid of this kind of mark? —Mrs. Wilma Hood

You can try to steam it out carefully, covering the line with a cloth, but I doubt that abrasions can be removed from the kind of material used in coats. There are only two things I can suggest. One is to see if there is a piece of material inside the coat that you can use to make false cuffs. The other is to get a piece of false or real fur just wide enough to cover the abraded hem on the sleeves. Has anyone any better ideas?

Dear Dorothy: Our dog has fleas. We've tried flea powder, flea shampoo and a flea collar. Nothing helps. — Trina Sego

Try giving your dog a little brewer's yeast. Many pet owners swear by it, saying it not only keeps fleas away, but gives a nice luster to their dogs' coats. Health food addicts swear by it, too, so it has a lot of human supporters. One reader gives his collie a teaspoon a day. Check with your vet.

Dear Dorothy: Using an emery board, I smooth the end of a crochet needle that had lost its hook. This is perfect for feeding material under the pressure foot of the machine. I'm in my 35th year of marriage and thanks to you have learned how to cook zucchini. Keep telling us how. —Mrs. B. K. Barlow

Jill Koeppen-William Swearingen

Identical gold rings bearing the groom's family crest were exchanged by Jill Paulette Koeppen and William Dawson Swearingen Feb. 12 in Long Grove Church. Jill is the first woman in the Swearingen family to wear such a ring but all the men have them.

Mr. and Mrs. William Swearingen

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. H. Koeppen Jr. of Wheeling, and her groom met at Heilicher Bros. in Minneapolis where she worked until her marriage. Bill is still with the company. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jay E. Swearingen of Lake Forest.

The couple exchanged vows and rings by candlelight at 5 p.m., then greeted 150 guests at a reception at Hobson House, also in Long Grove.

JILL'S WEDDING gown was of ivory satin with lace inserts and trim, and her illusion veil was held by a wreath of baby's breath. She carried a beaded bag, which had been part of her mother's bridal attire, along with a single white rose and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Pamela Bennett of Wheeling, whose mother had been the same attendant at the Koeppens' wedding 31 years ago.

Pamela wore a floor-length, emerald green shirtwaist gown with gold accessories and a diamond pendant, a gift from the bride. She carried a single white rose with greens.

JAY E. SWEARINGEN JR., Lake Bluff, was his brother's best man. John W. H. Koeppen III, the bride's brother, and Guy Petty, Portsmouth, N.H., were groomsmen.

Also in the wedding party, the groom's niece, Elizabeth Swearingen, 7, of Lake Bluff was flower girl and her brother, Garrett, 5, ring bearer. Elizabeth wore a green and blue velvet dress with an ivory pinafore and carried an ivory basket of white roses. She presented a rose to the bride's mother; her grandmother, Mrs. Paul Greenwalt; and to the groom's stepmother, Mrs. Jay Swearingen.

The newlyeds spent a month's honeymoon in Europe and are living in Wayzata, Minn. Jill is a graduate of Wheeling High and Northern Illinois University; Bill attended UCLA.

Ruth Weinberg– Scott A. Rickerson

After their marriage Feb. 5 in Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Prospect Heights, Ruth Jean and Scott Alan Rickerson traveled around the country for two months before settling in Arlington Heights, their home town.

Ruth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Weinberg and Scott the son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Rickerson. She is a '76 graduate of Hersey High School and Scott of Arlington High the same year.

Their afternoon ceremony was followed by a buffet dinner for 125 at the Weinberg home in Arlington Heights.

Ruth's sister Carol, Schaumburg, was her maid of homor and Ward B. Wallner, Arlington Heights, was best man for the double ring rites. Brothers of the couple, Roy and Ed Weinberg and Steve Rickerson, ushered.

Roosevelt special poignant, personal

The White House has been filled with joy and despair.

Our presidents have suffered silently their physical pains and the strains of keeping a country running and a world at peace. Their wives have feared and lamented situations out of their control and have tucked their longings for personal fulfillment beneath a veil of public formality.

Americans understand little about the kinds of persons our presidents and their wives have been. Instead, we choose to view them as super human beings, far removed from life's common elements.

YOU MAY BELIEVE otherwise after seeing "Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years." It is the elegant, superbly produced end to a story of this couple shown last year under the title of "Eleanor and Franklin."

The crust of last year's production, which won 11 Emmy Awards, was a string of flashbacks of the Roosevelts together, that Eleanor recalled at her husband's death.

"Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years," a three-hour drama to be seen Sunday, again uses the flashback technique of recounting good and bad times. The show will begin at 7 p.m. on Channel 7 and have only three commercial breaks. It is sponsored by the IBM Corp.

THE SPECIAL IS not just a recapturing of those unprecedented 12 years in The White House, from 1932 to 1945. It is a story of two individuals the world knows intimately in a public sense but not at all personally.

Franklin D. Roosevelt quickly dismissed talk about or attention to the braces on his crippled legs. Photographs taken of the President showed him standing or sitting — not struggling.

The special portrays him as a man of good intentions who often fancied a capable, pretty secretary or an old flame. In those days, just before his long-awaited trip to Hot Springs where he dies, we see a man who comes to grips with age and even death.

Eleanor and Franklin are played brilliantly and sensitively by Edward Herrmann and Jane Alexander. Their resemblance in appearance and gesture to the Roosevelts is remarkable.

FROM MS. ALEXANDER'S three-year research of Eleanor Roosevelt, we see a very persnal and self-sacrificing view of the woman.

Eleanor is a woman who easily carries on a love affair with the world and, yet, quite regretably in the end, cannot share a devout closeness with her husband.

She is a woman whose emotions never were evident. She and Franklin grew up in an age when feelings were restrained and service to one's fellow man was placed before love's self-gratification.

She locks herself in the bathroom, turns the water faucets and flushes the toilet before sobbing openly, in early years, over the death of her infant son and, in later years, the uncertain future of her grown sons fighting overseas.

IT IS THAT private grief and struggle that the film brings to life, along with the textbook accounts of FDR's conflict with the Supreme Court and his involvement in the complexities of World War II. Eleanor becomes his eyes, ears and voice around the globe in places where Franklin's legs won't carry him.

Eleanor and Franklin are a magnificent team of energy and effort, and yet a couple that knew only glimpses of affection in those White House years.

Just as the two, aged but wiser, are ready to give their marriage new life, Franklin dies. Hopelessness and anguish finally burst out of Eleanor during a final scene with her daughter, Sara — a seldom seen expression of anger.

With all the justified and unjustified complaints about television these days, "Eleanor and Franklin; The White House Years" is television at its best — par excellence in accuracy, reality and drama.

It is one of the most fulfilling and worthwhile experiences that television has had to offer in a long time.

HIGHLIGHTS:

• That flaming red hair, those shredded and seductive skirts, those wild and jazzy legs — that untamed energy that is Shirley MacLaine will radiate from television sets Saturday in the entertainer's special "Where Do We Go From Here?"

It's a question she ponders throughout the one-hour variety special at 9 p.m. on Channel 2.

"Eleanor and Franklin"

There's Shirley as the raspy, secretly swinging old lady who cuts and dresses her salad fixings with lots of feeling to the tunes of "The Stripper." It's a scene of good costuming and well executed moves that will make you roar.

There's Shirley as the New York tour guide, aptly convincing her audience that the city really is comparable to Disneyland with its "characters" and "wild rides."

One minute she's a sweet, calming red rendition of "Everything Old is New Again," while the next she's an exciting, wild mover to a contemporary "Sweet Georgia Brown."

An ingenius part of the show is Shirley's performance in tutus with the Les Ballet Trockadero de Monte Carlo, an all-male company of unlikely ballerinas who dance well on their toes.

The group easily earns both laughter and respect as their entertaining shenanigans are based on sound knowledge of the classical and modern ballet.

Her solo, "Promises," sung to the illustrations of Mexico's satirical cartoonist Sergio Aragones, is a serious, inner look at the world and life experiences.

"Where Do We Go From Here?" looks to continue the success of Miss LacLaine's two previous network specials, "If They Could See Me Now" and "Gypsy in My Soul," which were Emmy winners.

• "The Chicago Soul Special" follows "The Tonight Show" at midnight Friday on Channel 5 with 90-minutes of groovey jive hosted by Don Cornelius and The Spinners. The special, which was taped in October, 1976 at the Chicago Amphitheater during the Rev. Jesse Jackson's "Push for Excellence" campaign, will feature Boz Scaggs, Bill Withers and the B.T. Express.

• You want suspense? Then get the popcorn and soft drinks out for the ABC movie thriller "Let's Scare Jessica to Death" at 8 p.m. today on Channel 7.

• Viveca Lindfors portrays some of literature's most famous women in her one-woman show "I Am Woman" at 9 p.m. today on Channel 11.

• Indiana head basketball coach Bob Knight joins fellow coaching wiz David Gavitt of Providence and host Dick Enberg for "On To The Omni," a college basketball special from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday on Channel 5. History and highlights of the past 38 years of the NCAA tournaments will provide an introduction to NBC's 11-game coverage of the 1977 NCAA tournament.

• Hermione Gingold is the star and Burgess Meredith is the narrator of "Winter of the Witch," a CBS children's film festival special at 12:30 p.m. Saturday on Channel 2.

• "Mean Streets" stars Robert DeNiro in a story about young men who have grown up together in New York's Little Italy at 8 p.m. Saturday on Channel 5.

• Highlights of the first ABC Forum, an examination of the American election process, will be broadcast Sunday in an expanded edition of "Second Sunday" at 8:05 p.m. on the NBC Radio Network. The forum was March 4 and 5 in Washington D.C. and included discussion of primary elections, campaigns and their financing, polls and the roll of the media in the election process.

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling deem it in the best interests of the citizens of the Village that the Code of Ethics of the Village be amended and revised; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling are empowered to so amend and revise the Code of Ethics;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling, County of Cook, State of Illinois, as follows:

SECTION A.

That Title 2.94 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be and hereby is amended to read as follows:

Chapter 2.94
Code of Ethics

2.94.010 Declaration of Policy. The proper operation of democratic government requires that public officials and employees be independent, impartial, and responsible to the people; that government decisions and policy be made in the proper channels of the governmental structure; that public office not be used for personal gain; and that the public have confidence in the integrity of its government. In recognition of these goals there is hereby established a Code of Ethics for all officials and employees, whether elected or appointed, paid or unpaid. The purpose of this Code is to establish ethical standards of conduct for all such officials, and employees by setting forth those acts or actions that are incompatible with the best interests of the Village and by directing disclosure by such officials and employees of private financial or other interests in matters affecting the Village. The provisions and purpose of this Code and such rules and regulations as may be established are hereby declared to be in the best interests of the Village of Wheeling.

2.94.020 Responsibilities of Public Office. Public officials and employees are agents of public purpose and hold office for the benefit of the public. They are bound to uphold the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Illinois and to carry out impartially the laws of the nation, state, and the Village of Wheeling and thus foster respect for all government. They are bound to observe in their official acts the highest standards of morality and to discharge faithfully the duties of their office regardless of personal considerations, recognizing that the public interest must be their primary concern. Their conduct in both their official and private affairs should be above reproach.

2.94.030 Dedicated Service. All officials and employees of the Village should be loyal to the political objectives expressed by the electorate and the programs developed to attain those objectives. Officials and employees should adhere to the rules of work and performance established as the standard for their positions by the appropriate authority.

Officials and employees should not exceed their authority or breach the law or ask others to do so, and they should work in full cooperation with other officials and employees unless prohibited from doing so by law or by officially recognized confidentiality of their work.

2.94.040 Fair and Equal Treatment.

a. Interest in Appointments. Canvassing of the President and the members of the Board of Trustees directly or indirectly in order to obtain preferential consideration in connection with employment by the Village or appointment to Village service shall disqualify the candidate for employment or appointment. This paragraph shall not apply to positions filled by appointment by the President with the advice and consent of the Board of Trustees.

b. Use of Public Property. No official or employee shall request or permit the use of Village owned vehicles, equipment, materials, or property for personal convenience or profit or political purposes, except when such services are available to the public generally or are provided as Village policy for the use of such official or employee in the conduct of official business.

c. Obligations to Citizens. No official or employee shall grant any special consideration, treatment, or advantage to any citizen beyond that which is available to every other citizen.

2.94.050 Conflict of Interest. No official or employee, whether paid or unpaid, shall engage in any business or transaction from which he derives a financial gain or from which a member of his immediate family derives a financial gain, direct or indirect, which is incompatible with the proper discharge of his official duties in the public interest or would tend to impair his independence of judgment or action in the performance of his official duties.

a. Incompatible Employment. No official or employee shall engage in or accept private employment or render services for private interests when such employment or service is incompatible with the proper discharge of his duties or would tend to impair his independence of judgment or action in the performance of his official duties.

b. Disclosure of Confidential Information. No official or employee shall, without proper legal authorization, disclose confidential information concerning the property, government, or affairs of the Village. Nor shall he use such information to advance the financial or other private interest of himself or others.

c. Gifts and Favors. No official or employee shall accept any gift, whether in the form of service, loan, thing or promise, from any person, firm or corporation which to his knowledge is interested directly or indirectly in any manner whatsoever in business dealings with the Village, nor shall any such official or employee (1) accept any gift or favor or thing of value that may tend to influence him in the discharge of his duties, and (2) grant in the discharge of his duties any improper favor or service or thing of value.

d. Representing Private Interests Before Village Agencies. No official or employee shall appear in behalf of private interests before any agency of the Village if the nature of representation is in any way related to his official Village activities. He shall not represent private interests in any action or proceeding against the interests of the Village in any litigation to which the Village is a party.

The President or a Trustee may appear before Village agencies on behalf of constituents in the course of his duties as a representative of the electorate or in the performance of public or civic obligations. However, these officials shall not accept a retainer or compensation for such appearance.

e. Contracts or Transactions with the Village. Any official or employee who has a substantial or controlling financial interest in any business entity, transaction, or contract with the Village or in the sale of real estate, materials, supplies, or services to the Village, shall make known to the proper authority such interest in any matter on which he may be called to act in his official capacity. He shall refrain from voting upon or otherwise participating in the transaction or the making of such contract of sale.

f. Disclosure of Interest in Pending Legislation. The President or a trustee who has a financial or other private interest in any pending legislation shall disclose in the minutes of the Board of Trustees the nature and extent of such interest, and disqualify himself from voting.

Any other official or employee who has financial or other private interest, and who participates in discussion with or gives an official opinion to the Board, shall disclose in the minutes of the Board the nature and extent of such interest. "Pending legislation" shall be defined as any ordinance being considered for passage by the President and Board of Trustees.

Ups and downs bombard network programming

by DIANE MERMIGAS

If you think you've got problems, just switch on your television set and flip the channel selector. No one has ups and downs like the networks.

The biggest downer of all has been for CBS. For the first time in more than 20 years, the network this season slipped from the top position in prime-time ratings.

CBS programming has gone stale and so have its leaders, although there was a glimmering of the high quality programming the network traditionally has offered in the Thursday night special, "A Circle of Children."

IN THE STRUGGLE to remain on top, CBS has failed. Viewers have been bombarded with idiot shows of little intellect and plots such as "Hunter," Spencer's Pilots" and "Code R."

Other CBS headaches include poor placement of programs. "Who's Who," a television people magazine which is the outgrowth of the successful "60 Minutes" was placed opposite ABC's "Happy Days" on Tuesday night, an early-season mistake that is not wearing well. A sharper presentation and a new time slot could make the show a hit.

There is also the second place grip the CBS-owned WBBM-TV in Chicago is losing to NBC-owned WMAQ-TV in weeknight newscast ratings. Channel 2 is busy hiring new blood for its evening news show, while barely maintaining its 5 p.m. second place and having lost its 10 p.m. second place news spot to NBC last month.

AND LET'S NOT forget Bob Newhart has refused to complete one more season of his Saturday night show while Mary Tyler Moore and her popular gang are leaving the air for good this month, leaving big holes in CBS programming.

CBS brass plan to go with more mini-series and specials next season to improve their situation and are reportedly working on some 55 projects for the fall.

Meanwhile, NBC has its own problems. The network's News Center 5 in Chicago is showing some good signs since revamping last fall and is aiming to replace Channel 2 as second place at 5 p.m.

BUT, THERE ARE some problems elsewhere. NBC's television novels, currently highlighted with "The Rhinemann Exchange" have not proved to be the program boom anticipated. NBC specials have not received terrific ratings either.

The network tried desperately to make Wednesday a "laugh without stopping" night in every American home with four half-hour comedies in a row: "The Practice," "CPO Sharkey," "The McLean Stevenson Show" and "Sirota's Court." Only two of the shows have survived.

In an attempt to improve its ratings, NBC has decided to rerun its successful "Captains and the Kings" television novel beginning March 31 and to bring its "Today Show" to various locations around the globe, including an April appearance in Chicago.

ABC would not appear to have a care in the world. It has a handful of geniuses running the network show, developing and scheduling just the right kinds of shows this season and sitting on top in first place.

AFTER ALL, how can you miss with "Happy Days" and its spin-offs; "Eleanor and Franklin;" "Roots" and Barbara Walters on the evening news for $1 million a year.

But, there are problems. The ABC evening news does not have the ratings it should, even with Ms. Walters. There have been rumors about uneasiness between Ms. Walters and her partner, Harry Reasoner, and that one of them might go. The prospects seem to be that ABC sports boss Roone Arledge will be taking over the news show to nurture it back to good health.

He is the man who put ABC sports on the map with "Monday Night Football" and "Wide World of Sports" where it remains, even though NBC has rights to the 1980 Olympic games.

How NBC will handle Olympic coverage and the presence of its newest employees — Henry Kissinger and Gerald Ford — is yet to be seen and quite another story.

THERE ARE LISTS of concerns and headaches that belong to all three networks in their constant, competitive struggle. Viewers are complaining about too much violence and not enough quality programming. The Federal Communications Commission is double checking for restrictions. And public television and new "fourth network" concepts become a growing threat in terms of viewers and advertising dollars.

The network ups and downs go from hour to hour and day to day — but it keeps the right people on their toes and that only can prove beneficial to television viewers.

Busing funds may go for in-district desegregation

State money earmarked for a metropolitan desegregation plan including the voluntary busing of inner city children to the suburbs may be diverted to helping city school districts desegregate within their own boundaries.

A legislative proposal asking for $2 million in desegregation assistance was approved Thursday by the Illinois Board of Education. The money, if appropriated by the Illinois General Assembly, would provide technical assistance for school districts to develop and begin plans to eliminate racial segregation.

THE FUNDING was to boost State Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin's idea to bus inner-city black students to suburban schools with empty classrooms — a plan designed to alleviate the problems of racial segregation and declining enrollment.

Cronin said Thursday, however, the money "is no longer exclusively for metropolitan desegregation. Most of the money could be spent within Springfield, Rockford or Chicago to aid them in their desegregation planning."

Cronin said although the focus of the desegregation aid is being shifted from a metropolitan plan it is "not removing" the possibility of funds being used in a city-suburban program.

THE RATIONALE for providing state funds, Cronin said, is that the state education office requires local school districts to prepare acceptable desegregation plans but it does not provide districts with financial aid for desegregation efforts.

"With the City of Chicago about to embark on a comprehensive planning program for desegregation the state has no money to give them. The only people who give assistance are the federal government," Cronin said.

The board's proposed bill asks for $2 million from the legislature. A contingency plan adopted by the board's budget committee if their budget is not fully funded in the legislature however reduces desegregation assistance to $1 million for the 1977-78 school year.

Lincoln County plan gets support

Efforts to carve a new county out of six Northwest suburban Cook County townships are gaining local support.

Both Des Plaines and Park Ridge say they want to be included in a feasibility study on the proposed Lincoln County. The Northwest Municipal Conference, however, is having a hard time finding someone to conduct that study.

Earlier this year, the municipal conference asked the Illinois Dept. of Local Government Affairs to conduct a study. Officials of that agency, however, say they don't have the manpower or money to tackle the project.

William Muhlenfeld, executive director of the conference, said his group is asking the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission to conduct the study.

IF NIPC declines, Muhlenfeld said, the conference will have to decide if it wants to hire a consulting firm to do the work.

"There is some feeling the support may be there because of our contact with Des Plaines and Park Ridge," Muhlenfeld said.

The idea for creation of Lincoln County dates back to 1970. The original proposal called for Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover townships to secede from Cook County and form a new county.

Backers of the proposal say residents would receive more service for their tax dollar in a small county. They Say Cook County is too big and provides services not used by Northwest suburbanites.

The municipal conference says it does not want to back formation of the new county until a complete study of the proposal has been made.

Dick Allen 'tickled to death' to be with Oakland

by JOE SARGIS

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Controversial slugger Dick Allen joined the Oakland A's at their spring training camp Thursday and said he "was tickled to death" he had a job in baseball.

The 33-year-old Allen, who has hit 346 home runs during his 14-year major league career, said, though, 1977 probably will be his last in baseball.

"I thank God I'm here this day and I have a job in baseball," he said. "But I didn't go hunting for this job. There were several other offers but I decided this is where I wanted to be."

ALLEN GAINED his free agency from Philadelphia after last season, a move the Phillies made after he left the club for four days during the National League stretch run. Allen said he wanted to forget everything that has gone before and is placing his "trust in God" from hereout.

"Over the years," Allen said, "I've had an opportunity to see a lot of things happen in baseball, including some to myself. I don't care to talk or dwell on those things because all I'm concerned with now is this season."

Allen as yet has not signed an Oakland contract but he said he agreed to terms with owner Charles O. Finley and for him that's good enough.

"THE MAN HAS my word," Allen said, "and I have his. That's good enough for me."

Allen said he'd like to put to rest "old stories" that he doesn't care about spring training or taking batting practice before regular season games.

"Those are stories created by writers," he said. "Sometimes, if writers had taken the trouble to find out why I wasn't taking batting practice, they might have reached a different conclusion."

Allen said he couldn't wait to get started getting himself into physical condition to play ball. However, he said his weight was where it should be and he didn't have any aches or pains. He added he is willing to take on any job 'A' Manager Jack McKeon asks him to.

ONE OF THE BIG reasons why I decided to join the Oakland club," Allen said, "is because of Jack McKeon. I've never met him formally until the other day and, at this moment, I feel as if I knew the man a long time. He's a gentleman and a fine manager and whatever he says, I'll do. He's the boss and that's the way it should be."

'McKeon said Allen will play first base most of the time and when he is out of the regular lineup he will serve as the designated hitter.

"I'm as happy as I can be to have Dick on our club," said McKeon."He's a class player and I know he'll be a big help to this club, which is a pretty young one and needs someone like Allen to show the way. I'll treat him no different than any other player and I certainly don't anticipate any problems. He's a gentleman and that's all that matters to me."

DURING HIS 14 seasons, Allen has compiled a composite, .293 batting with four teams — the Phillies twice, St. Louis, Los Angeles Dodgers and Chicago White Sox. He was voted the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1972 and was National League Rookie of the Year in 1964.

Last season, in 85 games, he batted .268 with 15 home runs and 49 runs batted in.

Two remain! Bison, Cards in title play

by KEITH REINHARD

A chance for retribution bounced from one team to another in the cozy, old Waukegan East gym this week, leaving Buffalo Grove in a defensive stance as they attempt to hurdle that last barricade on the trail to the class AA "Sweet Sixteen."

The Bison clash with New Trier West tonight at 7:30 on the tradition-laden Bulldog court. To the victor goes a berth in the Evanston Super-Sectional at McGaw Hall next Tuesday.

The vengeance that Buffalo Grove might have had to support their quest for a downstate ticket was lost as the North Chicago Warhawks fell to New Trier in Wednesday's sectional test, 58-48.

Last year it was the Warhawks who knocked Buffalo Grove out of the competition in opening round sectional action.

Wins tonight by Buffalo Grove and Arlington would set up a Mid-Suburban League showdown in the Evanston Super-Sectional Tuesday afternoon and assure the area of an Elite Eight position. Sports Editor Bob Frisk examines this possibility today in his column on page 3.

NOW IT'S New Trier West with an old debt to pay. They were three-point losers to Buffalo Grove in a tournament at Niles West last Thanksgiving.

The idea of getting even may not amount to very much, but in a contest where the teams are so very evenly matched, any little bit helps.

And, indeed, Buffalo Grove and New Trier West appear to be very evenly matched.

Both sides get superlative guard play. The veteran Bison combo of Scott Groot and Mike Ledna perfectly complement a front-line that is geared to carry the scoring punch. Ledna has that rare ability to penetrate nearly at will. Groot has the nice soft outside touch.

The New Trier West duo of 6-0 Rick Malnati and 5-10 Jim Karr has identical traits. Malnati penetrates. Karr can hit from long range. The Cowboys might even rate an edge since Malnati's 15.5 scoring tempo and the 10-point average that Karr has been carrying of late eclipse the BG backcourt scoring marks.

Rate the Cowboy and Bison forward tandems comparable as well. Mike Marshall and Fred Heesch allow Buffalo Grove to be rated the beefier of the two sets, but 6-4 Dan Franz and 6-2 Chris Blesius get equally high marks in aggressiveness. Franz is also averaging 14 points a game this season.

BOTH TEAMS are well disciplined. Both can shift from a man-to-man to a zone defense at will and New Trier West coach Mel Sheets, like Paul Grady, is not hesitant about going to his bench where 6-1 Steve Blinderman is the most likely first replacement.

That leaves center, and Cowboy Joel May is not bad. In addition to averaging a team-leading 17 points per game, the 6-5 junior is not the type to be intimidated by anyone . . . a scrappy hard-nosed cager.

For Buffalo Grove Brian Allsmiller obviously is at center. And perhaps any analysis of this contest would be prefixed with the thought that if this 6-8 superstar is on his game, the Bison would rate an overall edge.

Unfortunately, he is just human and subject to his own off nights. Allsmiller was much less than his usual self the first time these two teams paired off and Buffalo Grove barely managed to squeeze out a win.

AND ALLSMILLER was not right on his game when the Bison just barely managed to hold off Carmel last Tuesday to earn this second crack at the Cowboys.

New Trier West takes a 21-5 slate into the game. Their defeats, in addition to Buffalo Grove, were by one point to Loyola, by 10 to Elgin, by six to Maine East and by two to Maine South, all on the road.

"They're an outstanding team and their guards are extremely quick," said Bison coach Grady. "It should be a tight game but we can win if we play the kind of defense we're capable of playing and hit those offensive boards full force."

Of course, Grady's been repeating that kind of story all year.

And, then again, the Bison have been winning all year . . .

Tech's pressure concerns Zigman

by JIM COOK

Eight straight and a date with fate.

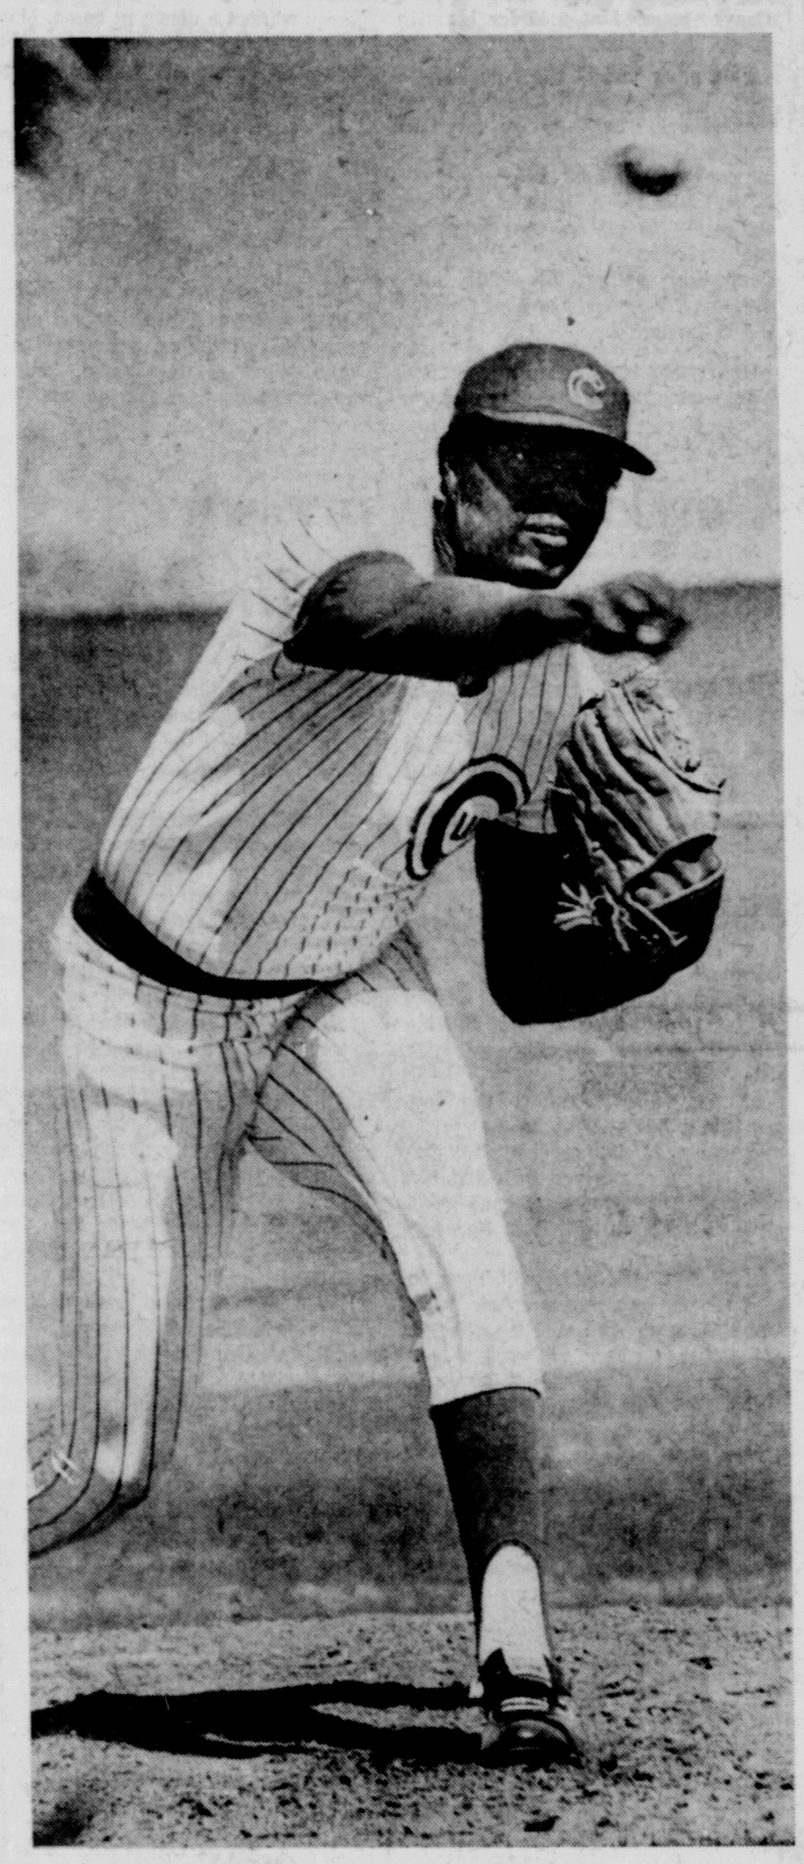

Arlington, playing its best ball of season, clashes with Gordon Tech tonight at 7:30 to decide the Arlington Sectional champion and a representative for Tuesday's Supersectional contest at Northwestern.

Riding the crest of an eight-game winning spree, the 21-7 Cards will combine its momentum and homecourt advantage against the fate of Gordon's lightning-quick 24-4 club.

"There's no doubt that we're going into this game as the underdog," Arlington coach George Zigman admitted. "They do a lot of things well, but I think their strongest feature is a tough man-to-man defense. They keep pressure on you all the time."

TECH'S CONSTANT pressure is generated by guards 5-10 junior

Newcomers lift Cubs to victory

Scottsdale, Ariz. — The new names made the big noise and the Cubs enjoyed a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee here Thursday in the exhibition baseball opener for both clubs.

Gene Clines' seventh inning double scored Ivan DeJesus to drive home the winning run on a windy Arizona afternoon.

DeJesus, a shortstop acquired this winter from the Los Angeles Dodgers, was the game's offensive star, with three hits, including a double, and two stolen bases.

The Cubs broke a scoreless tie in the sixth inning with an unearned run. The Brewers tied it in the seventh on Cecil Cooper's leadoff homer off Paul Reuschel.

In the bottom of the seventh, DeJesus singled, stole second and with two out, raced home on Clines' drive to left center.

Garr slaps three hits, White Sox take opener

From Herald Wire Services

SARASOTA, Fla. — Ralph Garr, who has been the center of attention here because of his negative appraisal of the White Sox chances, let the bat do his talking Thursday afternoon.

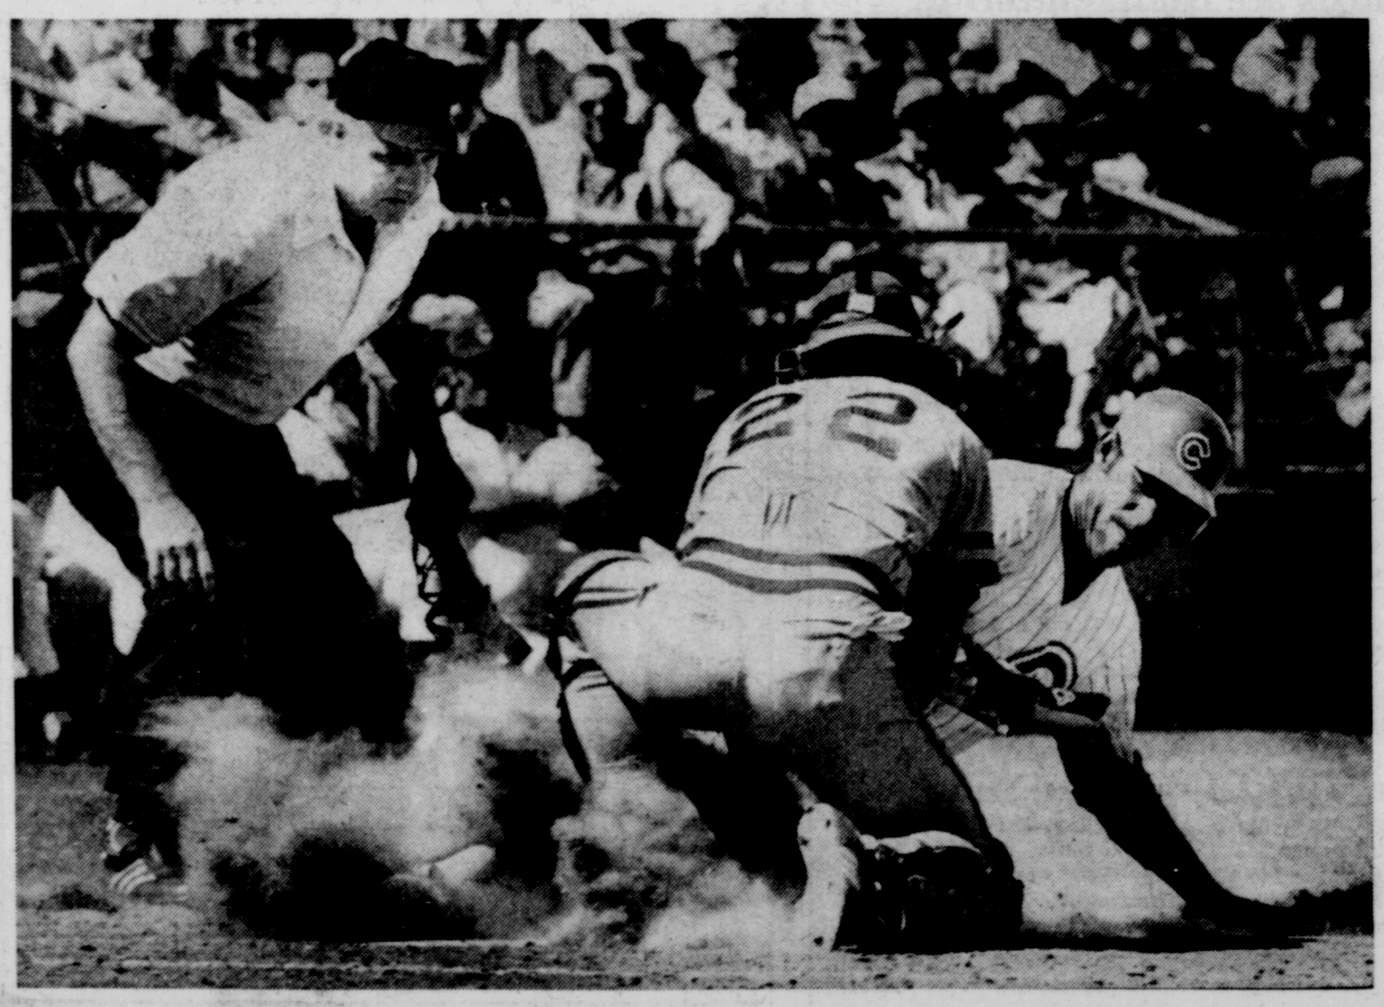

Garr had three hits, including a double, and Chet Lemon tripled and singled to lead the White Sox to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and manager Chuck Tanner in the exhibition opener for both clubs.

A single by Brian Downing and a double by Garr set up the winning run, which Al Bannister singled home in the seventh off Grant Jackson.

Wilbur Wood surrendered two Pittsburgh runs in the first three innings and Steve Stone, who was with the Cubs last sesson, pitched three hitless rounds before Dave Hamilton worked the seventh and eighth to record the victory. Downing and Jim Essian handled the catching.

John Candelaria started for Pittsburgh and was relieved by Don Medich in the second, Dave Giusti in the fourth, Jackson and Fred Scherman.

The White Sox meet the Pirates again today but take the exhibition show to Bradenton, Fla.

Ivan DeJesus slides but fails to beat the throw in Thursday action.

Cosell takes stand in death-threat trial

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Sportscaster Howard Cosell testified in U.S. District Court Thursday that he took an alleged threat on his life "very seriously" when informed by FBI agents about the incident.

Marian G. Batko, 30, of Lackawanna is accused of mailing the threat to blow up the ABC commentator during the first Monday night football game in Rich Stadium. Postal authorities intercepted the postcard before it reached the ABC commentator and handed it over to the FBI, which traced it to Batko.

Cosell told the jury upon questioning by defense attorney Samuel Perla that he took the threat seriously.

"After I talked with the FBI, I was disposed to take it very seriously," Cosell said. "And my wife took it very seriously."

Cosell was subpoenaed to determine if he actually felt threatened since he never personally received the postcard.

The garrulous sportscaster testified for about 20 minutes, answering questions about what he termed the "sports syndrome" in America. At one point, he was asked about the truth in sportscasting when he responded with a quote from Sir Francis Bacon.

"Francis Bacon was not a football fan," interrupted the defense attorney.

"I would hardly put that under the heading of a scoop," retorted Cosell.

Cooled-down Bean leads Doral

MIAMI — Andy Bean, a second-year pro who says he's playing better after learning to control his temper, shot a 67 Thursday to take a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $200,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

Shooting 68 over the par 72 Doral "Blue Monster" course were three golfers — Miller Barber, Leonard Thompson and Bob Erickson. Antoerh stroke back at 69, two off the pace,were Bill Garrett, Buddy Allin and Larry Ziegler.

Bruce Lietzke shot a one-over-par 73, breaking a string of 26 straight rounds of par or better golf that began last year and set a new PGA record.

Bean, a hulking 23-year-old Former University of Florida star, said his game was improved "because I think I got a little bit smarter."

Bean has already earned $25,408 this year and is 19th on the money list. Last year he earned only $10,761.

Due Diligence and Cauthen tie mark

Due Diligence, with apprentice jockey sensation Steve Cauthen aboard, Thursday equalled the Aqueduct record for 1-1/16 miles with his 1:43 3-5 time in the $25,000 allowance co-featured eighth race.

Due Diligence led all the way and was never less than a half length in front of the field of seven 4-year-olds and up, prevailing by 1¾ lengths at the finish. The victory was the first in his last nine tries and equalled the track mark set by Blue Times last Nov. 24.

Due Diligence returned $6.40, $3.40 and $2.60 in giving Cauthen his second winner of the day. Great Above paid $3.60 and $2.80 and Magnetizer showed at $3.20.

Knicks, Spurs are NBA victors

Bob McAdoo's 25 points and Earl Monroe's 24 helped New York hold onto its waning playoff hopes Thursday night as the Knicks came on strong in the fourth quarter for a 108-104 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers. Trailing 80-78 after three periods, New York outscored Portland 10-2 at the outset of the fourth quarter for an 88- 82 lead, the biggest of the game to that point.

Billy Paultz canned 26 points and grabbed 14 rebounds Thursday to lead San Antonio past Cleveland 106-100 for the Spurs' sixth straight NBA win. Paultz, the Spurs' 6-11 center, hit 10 of 16 field goal attempts, handed off seven assists and blocked two shots in his most aggressive game of the season.

Yanks, Reds are betting favorites

RENO, Nev. — The two-time world champion Cincinnati Reds and the New York Yankees, last year's American League pennant winners, were tabbed as the 1977 favorites Thursday by the Harrah's Reno-Tahoe racebook.

The Reds are a 6-5 choice to win the National League championship and the Yankees 7-5 in the American League. The Philadelphia Phillies, whom Cincinnati beat to get into the World Series, are a 5-2 pick with the Los Angeles Dodgers going off at 7-2, the same odds posted for the Kansas City Royals and California Angels in the AL.

Bart Conner heads up gym feature

NEW YORK — Twenty-three gymnasts from mine countries, led by Mitsuo Tsukahara of Japan and Bart Conner of the United States, held light practice Thursday for this weekend's second annual American Cup International Gymnastics competition at Madison Square Garden.

Three other nations — the Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia — accepted invitations but did not send teams, and Romania withdrew due to the earthquake there. Romania's Nadia Comanceci had withdrawn even earlier due to illness.

Among the 10 women entrants, Marta Egervari of Hungary took an Olympic bronze medal at Montreal and was seventh in the all-around. Conner, formerly from Niles West, was all-around champion in last year's first American Cup meet and Tsukahara, who is winner of an Olympic gold and bronze, was fourth.

Alabama wins 1st round of NIT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Muscular Reggie King fired in 26 points, 15 of them in the second half, to lead 18th-ranked Alabama to an 80-63 win over Memphis State Thursday night in an opening round game of the National Invitation Tournament. King, a 6-6, 225-pound sophomore forward, also pulled down 16 rebounds.

Hawks suffer another loss

VANCOUVER — The agonizing road skid continued here Thursday night for the Black Hawks. Vancouver escaped the Smythe Division basement with an effortless 5-0 victory over the Hawks.

Chicago, forced by injuries to work with several players just called up from Dallas, went with Mike Veisor in goal but still fell nine points behind St. Louis in the National Hockey League Smythe chase.

Lowly Vancouver, only one point out of fourth place in the Smythe heading into the action, enjoyed a 3-0 advantage after two periods.

The Canucks hit the board first in the opening period when Hilliard Graves counted at 2:45 for his 17th goal of the season.

Vancouver put 17 shots on goal in that first period while the Hawks showed only seven as the forwards continued to have problems moving the puck in the attack zone.

Don Lever scored the Canucks' second goal, his 21st of the campaign, and teammate Gerry O'Flaherty slapped in another, his eighth, minutes later. Vancouver outshot Chicago 11-9 in the period.

IN OTHER NHL action former Red Wing center Red Berenson scored two goals to lead the St. Louis Blues past Detroit, 4-2, handing the Red Wings their sixth straight defeat.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak for the Blues.

Mel Bridgman scored two goals to spark the Philadelphia Flyers to an overwhelming 7-2 win over the Cleveland Barons.

Jacques Lemaire and Rejean Houle each fired in two goals while Guy Lafleur picked up four assists to lead the Montreal Canadiens to a 7-1 victory over the Colorado Rockies.

THE CANADIENS, winless in their last two starts on the road, established an NHL record by going 28 games without a defeat at home. Montreal, now 23-0-5 on Forum ice, bettered the record set by the Boston Bruins who were 26-1 in 1970-71.

In Boston Greg Sheppard had two goals and an assist in a 1:55 span of the first period to start the Buins on their largest goal rampage of the season, a 10-3 romp over the New York Rangers.

The win was the sixth straight for Boston, which is 7-0-1 in its last eight games. The Rangers, suffering their worst defeat of the season, had a two game winning streak snapped.

James Copeland and 5-11 senior John Fahey and 5-11 forward E. J. Conner. The trio smothered Maine South, 63-53 Wednesday night with a full-court blanket.

"I'm just glad the game won't be televised," Ram coach Dan Chubrillo said. "Half of our losses this season — once to Weber in overtime and once to Holy Cross — were on TV. We've also lost to Fenwick in overtime and St. Laurence."

Gordon's offensive burden is shared by 6-4 senior forward and all-state football quarterback Tim McAvoy who pumped in 20 against Maine South and 6-5 senior center John Murphy who tallied 15.

Conner's (16) fine outside touch deflated Maine's zone and Copeland has had games of 26 twice although being stymied by South with four. He averages 16.

"I THINK THE game will hinge on whether we can handle their pressure," Zigman said. "If we can get the ball into where we want it and bring it up the floor without too much difficulty, we might be able to make their press work to our advantage.

"I think we can board with them, but we have to limit them to one shot on offense," Zigman said. "Fouls will play a big part of the game. If (Greg) Kloiber gets into foul trouble, we're dead.

"I think our bench might be stronger than theirs. It all depends on how the officials call the game.'

Zigman's concern for Kloiber is justified. The 6-4 center has been a horse in the pivot, averaging 22 points and 14 rebounds over his past eight games.

"Kloiber really works hard for what he gets," Chubrillo noted from scouting missions during the week. "He moves very well without the ball."

FRANK DeSIMONE has also enjoyed Grace Gym's home cooking with 27 points in his last outing. Baseline specialists Jim Zobel and Tom North will have to provide help for playmaking guard Dan Frase against the press.

The winner earns a berth against the Waukegan Sectional champ — either Buffalo Grove or New Trier West — at Northwestern's McGaw Hall as the Class AA field diminishes to 16 teams.

That Elite Eight dream

Bob Frisk

Sports Editor

Don't you find all this a little hard to comprehend?

After years of struggle with only the amazing Hersey breakthrough of 1974, it is entirely possible this area could be assured — yes, assured — of an Elite Eight finalist in basketball by 9:30 tonight.

For those dedicated basketball fanatics who have followed the area high school scene —and suffered — through the years, this must seem like the impossible dream to be so close to one of those final eight spots.

After spending a week at Walt Disney World in Florida, I could be accused of still living in a fantasyland to even think that both Buffalo Grove and Arlington will win tonight and set up a Champaign-or-bust, Mid-Suburban League shootout next Tuesday afternoon in the Evanston Super-Sectional.

THE LAND OF Mickey Mouse has a way of taking you completely out of the real world, but that doesn't mean I left my better judgment in Florida. It is possible, very possible, that both the Bison and Cardinals will survive tonight and collide Tuesday in Evanston.

Buffalo Grove vs. Arlington.

Super-sectional, a ticket to Champaign.

Doesn't that sound great? A Herald sportswriter could actually relax at McGaw Hall Tuesday afternoon with the knowledge he couldn't lose, the area couldn't lose, the Mid-Suburban couldn't lose.

I still remember how the heart pounded during those tension-packed closing moments of Hersey's dramatic win over Waukegan in the "Super" of '74. Hersey was up by eight with seconds remaining, and I was still nervous. I couldn't believe what was happening. I couldn't believe the area basketball team had finally reached that ultimate trip, Champaign in March.

SUPER-SECTIONAL play in Illinois basketball has progressed through some interesting stages, particularly the Evanston event where the area hopes to have some fun Tuesday.

The possibility that two area teams could collide boggles the mind. It doesn't seem that long ago when coaches, writers and fans in the north suburbs were griping about the inflexible state tourney plan that matched the Arlington Sectional winner with the Chicago champ every year in Evanston.

When 16 teams, including the Chicago titlist, went to Champaign (until 1956) there was no problem. The Elite Eight changed all that, and the north suburban teams had to knock heads with the city powers to land that ticket to Champaign.

Southern Illinois was the king of high school basketball for years, but suddenly, this baby on the shores of Lake Michigan came of age. The tremors were felt everywhere.

AS THE CHICAGO Public League teams gained strength in those years with Marshall's success opening the door, the suburban coaches saw their chances of taking a club to Champaign diminish. There would be occasional wins but the city teams dominated.

Coaches rapped the playoff system, and the Evanston Super-Sectional came under even sharper attack in 1966 after several fights flared in the stands during New Trier's game with Marshall.

Only quick action by a large number of policemen prevented the stands from emptying in what could have been a tragic flareup with racial overtones.

It was so ugly that Northwestern University officials, Athletic Director Stu Holcomb in particular, weren't sure they wanted the super-sectional game any more. They weren't anxious to provide the setting for a brawl, and nobody blamed them.

THE CHANGE was made, and suburban coaches smiled again. The "roadblock" was lifted. Let somebody else knock heads with the city champ. And they did.

Following that 1966 incident the city champ was shifted to East Aurora, Hinsdale Central and Crete-Monee sectionals before automatically earning a spot in Champaign with the 1972 two-class system.

The passing years have eased many problems, many complaints, but there always will be something that angers a segment of the public.

Some city folks have always insisted there should be two teams from Chicago in the final eight because of population, and with classy Phillips and Westinghouse marching to a showdown and probably both deserving Champaign spots, the argument has strength.

IF TWO Mid-Suburban League teams reach the same super-sectional Tuesday, you can be sure there will be some disgruntled observers rapping the system again.

Wouldn't that be something to have the system knocked because the much-maligned Mid-Suburban League basketball program sent two teams to the same super-sectional?

Let 'em gripe. You don't win 48 games (Buffalo Grove 27, Arlington 21) without some knowledge of what to do with a basketball. Who's to say the league doesn't belong in Champaign? Performance silences critics.

O.K., Buffalo Grove and Arlington, the challenge is there. If you pull it off tonight you can give this area a guarantee it has never had — the guarantee of a Champaign visit win or lose Tuesday.

REMEMBER, YOUR opponents are also just youngsters, impressionable teenagers who are experiencing the same stomach problems today in class as you are. Emotion rides high at this stage of any basketball season, and every tournament move is magnified because every move carries so much more meaning.

There's pressure, intense pressure, but that guy you're working against tonight is just as nervous. The pressure eases after the opening tip, and then your job begins, a job you've been training at for months now.

O.K., Buffalo Grove and Arlington, you know what that job is tonight.

IHSA seeks officials

Persons interested in becoming Illinois High School Association basketball officials, or officials in any of the other sports in which the Association requires registration of game officials, may do so by writing the IHSA Office, Officials Dept., 2715 McGraw Drive, Bloomington, Ill. 61701.

There is an urgent need for officials in the rapidly-expanding girls sports programs of the Association.

Learn to skate at Randhurst

Ten weeks of Learn-to-Skate instruction for all ages and skills will begin the week of March 14 at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, Routes 12 and 83, Mount Prospect.

Instruction in Randhurst's Ice Skating School follows a proven, step-by-step format, under direction of a professional skating staff. Arena manager George H. Simpson heads the program.

Total cost for any 10-week program is $40 for adults and $25 for tots (4-5 years old). Each student also receives a pass good for five free admissions to regularly scheduled public skating sessions during the enrollment period, to encourage practicing the techniques covered in classes.

Further information and applications are available daily at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena or by calling 259-5534.

Racquet courts added

The Arlington Heights Park District is pleased to announce the addition of eight new racquetball courts onto Forest View Racquet Club.

Grand opening week will include free court time, free house plants and, with purchase of a membership, a copy of "The Complete Book of Racquetball."

For fees and further information call 593-3285 or stop by the club at 800 E. Falcon Drive, right next to Forest View High School.

From campuses nationwide

—A pair of area athletes earned varsity letters for their contributions to Carthage (Wis.) College sports this season.

Jeff Haseman of Arlington Heights, a junior, earned a letter with the swimming team while Jim Pindras, a freshman also from Arlington Heights, picked up a monogram from the wrestling team.

—Roger Wood, the 6-11 Wheeling High School grad who went to the University of Kentucky for a spell before finding happiness at North Park College, was given special mention on the CCIW all-star team.

Wood averaged 13.3 points and 10.3 rebounds in conference action this year.

—Joe Shepherd, a graduate of Hersey High School, was a top man on the high bar and P-Bars for the Michigan State University gymnastics team this year.

—Chris and Kirk Morris, a pair of Palatine graduates, will play major roles with the Ripon (Wis.) College track team this spring.

Chris is a hurdler while Kirk devotes himself to the 440-yard dash.

Moms vs. Sons brings season to fine finish

I'm not sure how or where this might fit in the sports section of the Herald, but I would appreciate it if Herald, but I would appreciate it if

Little League has its pros and cons and I even find myself undecided on the issue on occasion. The other evening a number of us found out "what it's all about" and I'd like to pass it on to the Herald's readers. This was the first year for the Arlington

Fans' forum

Heights Youth Basketball Assn (AHYBA) and Bill Drevline and I coached the Bulls of the fifth grade league. We had a fine bunch of youngsters finishing second in the league with a 9-3 record and 17-9 over-all. We had a number of great games and a few sad moments but fun was had by all.

The season climax came, however, when we had a Moms vs. Sons game. The Sons won on two fast-break layups in the last minute. It was a see-saw battle all the way.

The game had competition, love, and most of all, family fun. It was the type of parental support this team has experienced all season long and as far as I'm concerned "that's what it's all about." The boys received the game-trophy but graciously gave it to their moms with a hug and a kiss. It was the best possible climax to a real fun season. Fine kids and parents are what Little League is all about.

K. D. Vesely
Arlington Heights

A group of "old time school and sports fans" are very disappointed in your coverage of local events. Case in point — at half time of a recent basketball game at Elk Grove High, it was announced that the gym was being dedicated to Charles Aldrich. Suitable presentations were made. Aldrich, leaving this year after 20 years in Dist. 214, also attended Dist. 25 all his elementary years and graduated from A.H.S. We think this deserves at least a few lines.

M.H. Addison, Members of Aldrich family, students and faculty

EDITOR'S NOTE: A reporter was on hand for the dedicatinn at halftime of Elk Grove's Feb. 15 game against Hoffman Estates. The occasion was noted in the game report the next day in the Feb. 16 Herald. The honor for Charles Aldrich is well deserved.

Kingman, New York still 'far apart' in money war

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Slugger Dave Kingman denied Thursday he was asking the New York Mets for a $3 million contract and was merely seeking a "dollar figure" that would put him in line with some of the other high priced major league players.

Kingman said the Mets' best offer was something approaching pitcher Tom Seaver's contract, which calls for a base of $225,000 a year.

General Manager Joe McDonald admitted the club "was far apart in negotiations" with Kingman and "that our offer is final, except for a few wrinkles here and there."

THE METS are believed to be offering Kingman $200,000 a year. There are indications he wants double that amount and is seeking a six-year contract at his figure, which would bring the total to $2.4 million for the period. In addition, he wants a bonus for signing, estimated at half a million dollars. This would amount to $2.9 million, a figure that Kingman denies is his asking price.

"The Mets are treating players in the dark ages," Kingman, a Prospect High product said. "Tom Seaver is the best pitcher in baseball, but he's being paid on old standards. If he were in my situation, he'd be worth twice as much as he's getting.

"I'm asking for a bonus to sign and I'm asking for more money than Seaver. He's a pitcher and I'm a hitter. I refuse to have my contract based on his contract. Tom is Tom and is paid on the old schedule, but this club bases everything on Seaver.

"I'M LOOKING and I'm seeing dollar figures paid Steve Garvey, Joe Morgan and Mike Schmidt. Why should I remain in the past? I leave it to New York fans to decide wh' is right."

Kingman said he is not blasting the Mets, but he remmbers Rusty Straub tried to do something about the salary situation "which wasn't in line with club policy, and he was traded."

The slugger, aquired from the San Francisco Giants, hit 37 homers last year and felt he could have had many more except for an injured hand.

"The Mets don't guarantee the full contract, only half if something happens to you," Kingman said.

KINGMAN SAID he was not threatening to play out his option, but "if I have to leave, I will. I did not shut the door to salary negotiations, but I feel the door was shut on me.

"I'm looking for a multi-year contract, but I'll settle for a one-year contract. But when I mention one-year contract, they want nothing to do with it. They say one-year contracts are out, but they talk salaries based under old times."

CAR CORNER
with George Orth & Roger Nick

To position jack stands before working under a car whose front wheels must be removed, check the rear wheels. Then jack up one side until the lower suspension arm that connects the wheel and chassis is lifted higher than the top of the last jack stand. Place one of the stands under the outside end of the arm, directly beneath the coil spring. Lower the car onto the stand and repeat the procedure on the other side to position the second stand. Wheel ramps may be used if you do not need to remove the wheels.

Getting your GM car ready for Spring driving is a job for expert technicians at RAY OLDSMOBILE, 501 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge! We are the largest retail OLDS dealer in Illinois and have one of the most extensive parts departments in the area. Our 20 factory-trained technicians work full time to keep GM cars running smoothly. Service Managers George Orth and Roger Nick are here to make sure you are completely satisfied with the job done on your car. Call us at 696-3200. We are open Mondays through Fridays from 7 A.M. until 6 P.M. Bank Americard and Master Charge are honored.

AUTO TIP
Do not overdrive the edges of the ramps, or let the wheels slip off the sides.

CAR CORNER
with George Orth & Roger Nick

To position jack stands before working under a car whose front wheels must be removed, check the rear wheels. Then jack up one side until the lower suspension arm that connects the wheel and chassis is lifted higher than the top of the last jack stand. Place one of the stands under the outside end of the arm, directly beneath the coil spring. Lower the car onto the stand and repeat the procedure on the other side to position the second stand. Wheel ramps may be used if you do not need to remove the wheels.

Action begins today in Champaign

Mt. Pulaski carries favorite's role in Class A

CHAMPAIGN — Defending champion Mt. Pulaski heads a field of eight finalists which will converge on the Assembly Hall on the campus of the University of Illinois in Champaign today when the Illinois High School Assn. (IHSA) conducts its sixth annual Boys Class A State Final Basketball Tournament.

Hilltoppers, a surprise winner last March, will wear the favorite's mantle, but they will face the darling of the Assembly Hall crowd — tiny Crescent City (Crescent-Iroquois) with an official enrollment of 98 and an actual count on Tuesday of this week at 89 (of which 54 are boys) — in the day's second Quarterfinal match.

Six of the eight finalists will be making their debuts on the Assembly Hall hardwood, with Eldorado appearing for an unprecedented third straight year. The combined record of the eight finalists is 190-44, lowest in the six-year history of the small school series. Twenty-five years ago Hebron, with an enrollment of 99 students from a community of 627, became the first — and only — District champion to go on to take the state's top prize in the then one-class statewide series. In 1964, the giant Cobden Appleknockers finished second to Pekin with an enrollment of 147. This year, Crescent-Iroquois becomes the smallest school ever to advance to Champaign. Largest of this year's small school (for enrollments of 750 or less) entrants is Aurora (Central Catholic) at 734.

TWO OF THE eight finalists come to Champaign with 11 losses — Roanoke-Benson at 19-11 and Eldorado at 20-11. Eldorado, however, features 6-7 all-state center Mike Duff, who fired through 36 points in the Eagles' win over Marissa in the Carbondale Super Sectional.

While Mt. Pulaski rates as the favorite, Madison, no stranger to Champaign during the old one-class series, could be the heir apparent to the Class A crown. The Trojans posted the biggest romp in the Super-Sectionals.

Two quarterfinal games will be played today beginning at 12:15 p.m. and two more Friday night beginning at 7:00. The quarterfinal schedule will be: Game 1 — Aurora (Central Catholic) (21-9) vs. Roanoke-Benson (19-11) at 12:15 p.m. Game 2 — Mt. Pulaski (27-2) vs. Crescent City (Crescent-Iroquois) (29-1) at 1:45 p.m. Game 3 — Eldorado (20-11) vs. Pleasant Plains (28-2) at 7:00 p.m. Game 4 — Madison (26-3) vs. Morrison (20-5) at 8:30 p.m. Friday's winners will meet in Saturday's semifinals beginning at 12:15 p.m. The third place game (matching the semifinal losers) will begin at 7:00 p.m. Saturday and will be followed by the championship game.

TICKETS, AVAILABLE to the general public, will go on sale each day beginning at 8 a.m. at the Assembly Hall Box Office only if the participating schools in each session return unsold tickets from their allotments. Session tickets are priced at $3.00.

A statewide network of seven stations will telecast the games over the weekend. Sponsored in part by the Country Companies and Pioneer Seed Co., the network will include the following stations for all games both days: WCIA in Champaign, WSIL in Harrisburg, WMBD in Peoria, WCEE in Rockford and WHBF in Rock Island. They will be joined on Saturday by: WGN in Chicago and WGEM in Quincy.

The official enrollments of the survivors (in descending order) are: Aurora (Central Catholic) at 734, Morrison at 631, Madison at 590, Eldorado at 487, Mt. Pulaski at 389, Pleasant Plaines at 350, Roanoke-Benson at 337 and Crescent City (Crescent-Iroquois) at 98. (IHSA official enrollments are based on the figures reported to the Illinois Office of Education on the last school day in September each school year.)

Consistency pays for Judy Rankin

Superstar on women's golf tour

Jim Murray

In all the welter of confusion professional golf has become with a different mystery guest winning every other week, it's a pleasure to report that at least one player is a model of consistency and regularly turns the young upstarts back.

It will come as no surprise to you to learn that this player is 1) blond; 2) from Texas; 3) has blue eyes; 4) regularly beats a golfer named Palmer; 5) turned pro in 1962; and 6) just won a big tournament in Florida.

Judy Rankin

If you've guessed Jack Nicklaus, you win the Bobby Riggs Male Chauvinist Pig Award for 1977. The most consistent golfer in the game today is not the Golden Bear or some gorilla just out of qualifying school, but a mere slip of a lass who wears hair ribbons on the course, plus eyeglasses and looks as if she just got rid of the braces on her teeth.

THE WOMEN'S golf tour has had three golf tournaments this year, and Judy Rankin has won two of them, and been in a playoff for the third. She has won her last two tournaments in a row by a total of nine strokes in the past two weeks. If a man golfer did that, they would name a car after him.

Judy Torluemke Rankin does not look the sort of person who would even watch a golf tournament, let alone win it. She's as feminine as Doris Day, tiny as a locket. She's not much taller than her driver and not much heavier than her bag. She's shy. She talks in whispers. She could go on "What's My Line?" for a month without the panel coming close to her profession. In a sport whose practitioners look — and sound — more like a ferry boat captain than a debutante, Judy Rankin stands out. She's 32 and a mother, but she could pass for a teenager.

When Judy Rankin turned pro, women's golf ranked somewhere between being a cocktail waitress and taking in washing for a living. She teed it up in 15 events that first year 1962 and won exactly $701.66. That didn't even pay her caddies.

JUDY RANKIN became a golfer when her invalid mother died when she was a child, and the father didn't know what to do with his orphaned little girl; so he took her with him on his weekend rounds of golf.

When Judy turned pro, there was nothing wrong with her swing. She had the confidence and ability to face the putts — but not the people. She was so shy, she was almost afraid to win. She blushed at applause. Much to her relief, she never won. She finished second chronically.

It was after her son was born that a new, aggressive Judy Rankin appeared on the tour in 1968. Right away, she began to win. From then on, she won two or more every year. One year (1975) she won only once, but was runner-up SEVEN times. Her improvement was constant. Gradually, she became a presence on the tour. "What's Judy doing?" the Kathy Whitworths and the Sandra Palmers and the Joanne Carners took to asking as they would come down to the final holes. The answer usually was "quite well, thank you."

LAST YEAR, Judy burst from the pack in earnest to win six tournaments, including the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winner's circle, the richest women's sporting event ever. She became the first woman golfer ever to win over $100,000 in a year — $150,734.28 in all. She won the Vare Trophy for the lowest stroke-per-round average (72.25). She finished in the top 10 no less than 19 times on the tour. She was elected president of the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. She was Jack Nicklaus in a hair ribbon. She is probably the best 108-pound player who ever lived.

Judy will defend her Dinah Shore Winner's Circle championship March 29-April 3 at Mission Hils in Palm Springs. If she wins again, there may be nothing left for her to do but take on the real Jack Nicklaus. That would be one way to avoid the headline "Unknown Beats Jack Nicklaus."

In fact, if she didn't, the headline might well read 'Judy Rankin Upset.'

Earl Anthony on strike

One of the most prolific bowlers ever to grace the lanes is Earl Anthony. Aside from cashing for over $100,000 two straight years, one of Anthony's lesser known, but still incredible achievements is his record for consecutive games 200 and over. The Tacoma, Wash., machine clicked on 42 straight during the Houston stop in 1971.

Kollar takes over Palatine baseball job

Al Berman

Jim Kollar, who has been coaching baseball and teaching business classes at Fremd High School for the past seven years, was named head baseball coach at Palatine High School this week.

The announcement came from Palatine athletic director Chic Anderson. Kollar will take over his duties immediately.

"Jim will continue teaching at Fremd this year," said Anderson. "And we're quite positive that he'll join our staff in the new building next year."

KOLLAR, 32, is married and resides in Buffalo Grove. He has been coaching on the freshman level at Fremd.

The head coaching position at Palatine opened up unexpectedly last week when four-year veteran Al Berman decided to step down for health reasons.

Berman's team was 9-13 last year, including a district championship. The previous year Berman led the Pirates to a record-tying 12 victories. No other Palatine team has won more.

Berman will continue in his duties as assistant wrestling coach at Paletine.

State school panel revises 1978 budget

by DIANE GRANAT

The Illinois Board of Education Thursday prepared a plan to slice $160 million from its 1977-78 budget if its original $1.9 billion request is not granted by the Illinois General Assembly.

If the board has to use its "contingency plan" it will mean no spending increases for special education, bilingual and gifted programs in the coming school year.

The revised budget proposal still would increase the amount of general state aid Illinois elementary and secondary schools would receive.

THE PLAN approved by the board's budget committee would go into effect only if the General Assembly approves Gov. James R. Thompson's appropriation of a $75 million spending increase for elementary and secondary schools.

The state board originally asked for a $225 million spending hike in its fiscal 1978 budget which would fully fund the school aid formula. However, Thompson has said there will not be enough money to pay for all the education requests for 1977-78.

"This is in no way is a reduction in the budget request," State Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin said. "We will still submit our budget adopted in January. We're talking about a contingency plan if the allocation in July is less."

The proposed revisions would leave funding for special education, bilingual, gifted and certain adult education programs at the same level as this school year. Funds for special education-orphanage tuition and summer school for handicapped students would remain intact.

THE BUDGET alternatives also would make the following changes in the original request:

- Funding of the school aid formula would be raised by $43.6 million from 1976-77 but it would fall short of the first 1977-78 request by $91.8 million.
- Vocational education funds would be increased by $3 million from this school year, but they would be $3 million below the first requested increase.
- Desegregation assistance, a new program to aid cities and metropolitan areas in planning school desegregation, would be reduced from $2 million to $1 million.

The board's contingency plan keeps its original intention to eliminate reimbursement for summer school programs this year except for handicapped students.

Win at bridge

Bad play tops poor bidding

Since this is a week for mistakes, we made a rather unusual one when we referred to the town of Bath in England as being a seaside resort. It is a resort, but far from the sea.

South complained about his bad luck. He had won the heart lead in dummy, led the eight of trumps and lost a finesse to West's king. Back came a second heart. South won, entered dummy with the jack of trumps and lost a diamond finesse.

West led another heart for the third defensive trick and there was no way for South to shut out the ace of clubs. Down one!

North kept silent for awhile, but when South proceeded to berate North for not having bid three notrump, North finally exploded.

He pointed out that with stoppers in all suits South might well have bid three notrump instead of three spades and that bad play, not bad luck had cost the spade game.

North was right. South should win the first heart in his own hand and play the ace and queen of diamonds. Then he would get in dummy with the ace of hearts and discard his losing heart on the diamond jack.

Ask Andy

Trees show their old age in trunk rings

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Lisa Dionne, 13, of Coventry, R.I., for her question:

WHAT DO THE RINGS IN A TREE TRUNK MEAN?

By the rings in a giant sequoia tree found in California, we know these trees have lived 2,000 years. Scientists know that the trees are continuing to thrive and cannot guess how many more years they will survive.

Trees, of course, continue to grow taller and bigger each year. And as they grow bigger, they also add a layer around the trunk, just beneath the bark. The wood added in the earlier part of the year is different from the wood added during the summer, so when the tree is cut down, we can distinguish between each year's growth.

When the tree is cut across, it shows a number of rings, one inside the other. It is easy to read the history of the tree this way.

But we only can use this method of giving a tree's age after the tree has been cut down. While it is still standing, we only can make a guess at its age from its height, size and species.

We also can measure the age of very old pieces of wood by a method called radiocarbon dating. All plants, as long as they are alive, absorb small amounts of radioactive carbon along with ordinary carbon from the atmosphere.

Radiocarbon decays and loses its radioactivity at a definite rate. But while the tree is living, it constantly absorbs more of the radiocarbon.

After a tree dies, it cannot continue to absorb carbon. But the decay of radioactive carbon continues.

At the moment of death there are 15.3 disintegrations per minute for every gram of carbon in the tree. After 5,600 years there will be just half that many, or 7.65 per minute for every gram of carbon, and 5,600 years later still the number will be cut in half again — to 3.825.

Scientists can burn a sample of wood to be tested and capture the carbon dioxide that is formed in the burning. They measure the carbon and then apply a special kind of Geiger counter. They count the impulses produced and thus figure the amount of radioactivity per gram per minute and from that the age of the wood.

As a tree grows older, it must continue to bear the leaves by which it breathes and manufacturers its food. The tree's branches grow so the leaves are spread to the sunlight. The branches grow fairly equally on every side, and are able to expose more leaves to the sun's rays.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Antonia Jean Carroll, 9, of Colorado Springs, Colo., for her question:

IF HEAT RISES, HOW IS THE EARTH HEATED BY THE SUN?

While it is true that heat rises, the heat we receive from the sun is actually in the form of radiation. The sun's heat radiates toward us. It's much like an electric heat lamp in your bathroom: it doesn't warm the air in the room but rather radiates heat directly on us.

The sun is so big that we don't have to worry about burning all of its heat supply. It has been glowing, scientists figure, for several thousand-million years and will last even longer than that into the future. It's a big blazing ball: if you reduced the sun's size down to that of a basketball and the earth in the same proportion, the earth would be the size of a buckshot pellet.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Good work, John McKeon!

Good news about carriers who deliver the news always makes us happy, and we want to share it with you. The Haseltine family in Palatine was nice enough to write us with these compliments for one of our outstanding carriers, John McKeon:

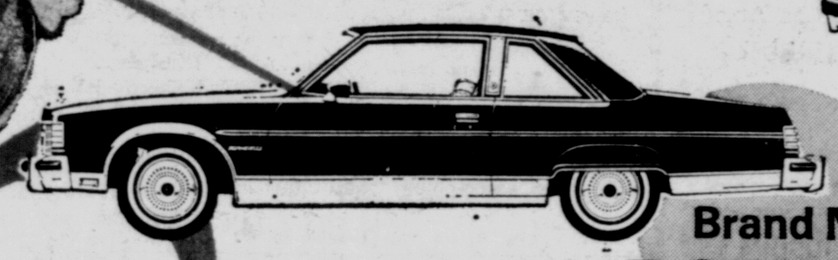

"Just a note to say we enjoy The Palatine Herald — and a few words of praise for our carrier John McKeon — the most friendly, courteous and efficient paper boy we've ever had. What a pleasure to find your paper on your doorstep every morning."
